Limited Special Session Urged

FINANCE LAW COMMITTEE
MAKES RECOMMENDATION

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

A special legislative committee Tuesday recommended that a strictly limited special session of the Legislature be convened not earlier than Oct. 1.

In its proposal, adopted on a unanimous 7-0 vote, the committee urged Gov. Frank Morrison to issue a call strictly confined in the finance area to two subjects:

— "remedial legislation" dealing with the penalty provisions applied against installment sales contracts invalidated by the State Supreme Court decision.

— revision of the 9% usury law.

In a third recommendation, the committee urged the governor to include in the call legislation proposing a constitutional amendment which would allow the Legislature to request advisory opinions from the high court.

Suggestions followed.

The recommendations largely followed suggestions voiced at a public hearing by the Nebraska Bankers Assn. and by Sen. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff.

Both had urged that the usury rate be boosted from 9% to 12%.

The committee stressed its desire not to include in the special session consideration of any changes in the new installment sales act or in any interest laws other than the usury statute, except for alteration of penalties.

"We want to try to enact legislation to take care of the immediate problem of time-sales and penalties," Chairman Michael Russell of Omaha explained.

"Other lending laws are a matter for more study. It is the duty of individuals and the industry to bring action if they so choose, rather than a matter for the Legislature."

Laws Questioned

Six special interest laws currently operate under a question of constitutionality.

(There is some legal question as to whether a call for a special session can preclude consideration of bills dealing with other interest laws.)

(An early court decision stated that any bill "germane to the objects stated in the call" may be considered.)

Earlier, Morrison informed the committee that he would like to summon the session sometime in October.

Other Topics

The governor has said that he will include in the call legislation dealing with appropriations for drivers education and Statehouse murals, and the so-called "bottle club" bill.

In testimony Tuesday, industry spokesmen agreed to withdraw their request that the governor direct the attorney general to test LB811, the new installment sales act, in the Supreme Court.

Instead, they said they will test it in a private lawsuit in District Court.

Spokesmen for retailers and car dealers were hesitant to endorse any increase in the usury rate, fearing that such a move could adversely affect the time-sales concept.

Delay Urged

Representatives of consumer credit organizations joined retailers and auto dealers in urging that a special session be delayed until after the court has acted upon two motions for rehearing in its installment sales decisions.

But bankers asked immediate action.

Lyman Stuckey of Lexington, president of the Nebraska Bankers Assn., urged as "backstop remedies" a new 12% usury statute while leaving consumer credit laws unchanged.

Remedial legislation removing forfeiture of principal and merchandise from invalid contracts written in good faith under the old installment sales act is "the item of prime concern," Omaha banker Marvin Werve declared.

"Any further delay only multiplies the exposure and possibility of loss."

The Supreme Court has applied to invalid time-sales contracts the penalty provisions of the installment loan act, providing forfeiture of merchandise, principal, interest and charges.

Industry representatives have urged the committee to sponsor legislation retroactively changing the penalty to forfeiture of interest only on installment sales contracts.

"Penalty Not Intended"

Max Denney of Lincoln, speaking for the Nebraska Consumer Credit Assn., said the Legislature "never intended the installment loan penalty to apply."

Denney was critical of the press, stating that "it is wrong and unfair to try these cases in the newspapers, on radio and television and in the legislative committee. They should be tried only in the courts."

Omaha attorney R. A. Skochdopole, representing the Associated Retailers of Omaha, urged caution: "To act without all possible guidance is to inject more uncertainty into a field in which uncertainty is the problem."

Carpenter suggested that the committee consider submission of a constitutional amendment "to see if the people approve the time-sales concept of 'loaning' money" with a limit of perhaps $9 per hundred, equivalent to 18% simple interest.

LB811 allows 12 per hundred, or 24%.

North Koreans Hurl Barrage Of Charges

... AGAINST U.N. COMMAND

Panmunjom, Korea (AP) — North Korean officers hurled a barrage of charges against the United Nations command at a meeting of the Military Armistice Commission Tuesday and finally stalked out before U.S. Marine Gen. George H. Cloud could finish his closing statement.

Communist guards and Communist newsmen peering into the room through open windows laughed at the abrupt closing of a largely fruitless session of 5 hours and 17 minutes.

The only solid development was a U.N. offer and North Korean agreement for return to the Communist side here Wednesday of a North Korean officer captured south of the demilitarized zone last fall.

Won't Discuss

Maj. Gen. Chang Chung-hwan of North Korea again refused to discuss the case of two U.S. helicopter pilots — Capt. Ben W. Stutts of Florence, Ala., and Charleton W. Voltz of Frankfort, Mich. — whose craft was forced down in North Korea May 17.

Chang said the Communists reply had been given in earlier commission meetings. The Reds have called the pilots criminals and said North Korea will decide their fate. The U.S. Army said the two strayed over the border inadvertently and were shot down.

The Communists called the 17th meeting of the commission and there had been speculation that they might make some major propaganda move in connection with recent incidents in the demilitarized zone or in the case of the two helicopter pilots.

Instead, they started out with a charge that U.N. personnel attacked North Korea fishing boats early this month, then ranged through a series of accusations that included booby-trapped toys, fountain pens and toothpaste.

Chang said the latter had been floated into North Korea on ocean tides "for the purpose of killing the innocent."

Gen. Cloud, the chief U.N. delegate, ignored Chang's accusation about the deadly trinkets. But of the alleged raids on fishing boats, he declared:

"The evidence you produced is a fabrication." The Communist evidence, as placed on the conference table, consisted of a carbine, clips, ammunition, expended shell cases and photographs.

The Communists refused to give an explanation of the ambush of an American jeep July 29 in which two U.S. soldiers were killed and a third wounded. Chang called the incident a farce, fabricated by the U.N. command.

He brushed off 7 U.N. charges that North Korean troops had infiltrated south of the demilitarized zone and attacked U.S. troops.

Chang presented a long harangue even before agreeing to accept the U.N. offer of return of the North Korean officer Wednesday.

Cloud said this officer had been wounded and captured in a clash Sept. 5, 1962, when 6 North Koreans attacked a U.N. work party south of the demilitarized zone.

JFK Says All Major Safeguards Being Met

... RAIL DISPUTE DECISION COMING

Washington (AP) — President Kennedy repeated assurances Tuesday that no secret side deals figured in the limited nuclear test ban agreement with Russia.

Kennedy said also that all the major safeguards the military chiefs of staff want built around the test ban pact are being met with current action or additional proposals for action. The Johnston Island test site in the Pacific is being prepared for resumption of tests, if need be, he said. The harbor is being dredged and piers built, he said.

Assortment

At a news conference that swung over the usual wide assortment of topics, Kennedy got in strong bids for congressional approval of a $4.1-billion foreign aid program without additional cuts and for passage of his civil rights and tax cut programs before the year runs out.

He said too, that:

1. He may be having considerable to say about the "radical right" in the presidential campaign next year. But right now he isn't saying anything about what a newsman described as charges that Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona, a top possibility for the Republican presidential nomination, "could become a captive of the radical right."

"I don't know who has captured who," Kennedy said. That set off a wave of laughter.

Impasse

2. It should be known Wednesday morning whether there will be a continued impasse or a negotiated settlement of the strike-threatening rail dispute.

3. Intelligence reports indicate a continued decline in the number of Russian troops in Cuba in the last 2½ months, but it is impossible to estimate how many are left. Kennedy said Soviet troops still are on the island and this is a matter of concern to the United States, even though they are largely in training roles.

4. The state of the national economy is good — slightly better than was estimated last January.

Mistake

5. It would be a mistake to assign job quotas on a basis of race, and he doesn't think it is the generally held view of the Negro community that the Negro is entitled to some kind of special compensation for what a reporter called "the pain of second-class citizenship over these many decades."

Kennedy tied off the news conference with a statement on behalf of holding the line against cuts in the foreign aid authorization bill now up for debate in the House.

In the give and take of questions and answers, Kennedy was reminded that Rep. Craig Hosmer, R-Calif., had demanded that the administration "reveal whatever side agreement was concluded in Moscow" in respect to the treaty banning all nuclear tests except those under ground.

Must Have Been

Hosmer said Monday that "there must have been a side agreement in Moscow as to what the meaning of this treaty is."

Asked whether he could present any proof positive on the matter, Kennedy replied: "No, I cannot. There is nothing I can say other than to say it is not so."

He said there was nothing that the undersecretary of state, or the treaty negotiator, W. Averell Harriman, or the British foreign minister or treaty negotiator could say except that it isn't so.

Tariff

"No," the President said a bit tartly, "we can't prove it."

And that brought on some laughter, too.

Kennedy took direct issue with nuclear physicist Edward Teller's contention that the administration cut down the number of atmospheric tests last year for political reasons. "I don't think the charge is valid," he said.

He said there have been 97 underground tests and 28 atmospheric—the White House later said the latter figure should have been 36. And in the atmosphere, Kennedy said, "we carried out several more tests, as I recall, than we had originally planned," although "quite obviously we didn't test unnecessarily."

Some Feeling

The first question at the news conference was what the President had to say about some feeling in Congress that perhaps the safeguards desired by the military commanders in the interest of national security won't be carried out as vigorously or fully as some members of Congress would like.

"I don't know where that feeling would arise," Kennedy said.

He said 4 safeguards mentioned by the Joint Chiefs of Staff also were mentioned in a speech he himself delivered earlier. And a letter is going to Congress, he said, "and we are going to describe in detail what steps we are going to take to implement the 4 safeguards."

No Reason

He knows of no reason why anyone should think the safeguards will not be fully maintained, he said, adding that on the first safeguard, maintaining laboratories, he has already consulted with scientists.

Secondly, he said, comes the preparation to resume testing if the agreement is broken. Johnston Island, the Pacific testing site, has been prepared, he said, and $22 million allocated for the purpose.

Third was a vigorous season of underground tests.

Some 97 of these have been conducted in two years, he said, and more will be.

Detection

The fourth safeguard was improving methods of detecting. "On that we have additional recommendations to make, which will be endorsed, I think, by the Joint Chiefs of Staff," he said.

Among other matters coming up:

Civil Rights—Kennedy said he would be glad to see the leaders of the Aug. 28 civil rights march on Washington but he does not intend to participate in the march.

The President said that the purpose of the march on Washington was to bring to the Congress and the nation the strong feelings of thousands of people on this issue.

180 Million

But he said that this issue of civil rights concerns all of the 180 million people in the country and the Congress.

He said that anyone who feels strongly on this issue has the right to come to Washington and talk to his congressmen about it.

Kennedy said he doesn't see why Congress can't remain in session long enough to handle the civil rights and tax bills. He said there are a lot better reasons for "getting out of town" in 1964—an election year—than now.

Possible

Taxes—The President said "it should be possible for the Congress of the United States to dispose" of the tax bill this year. He said it is an essential economic step.

He said if Congress started all over in January on the tax bill it could be May or July before the measure came to a vote.

Kennedy said he thinks most congressmen will agree that before Congress adjourns it should vote on both taxes and civil rights—"I hope up (pass them), but at least vote on them."

Kennedy: No Time To Slacken Efforts

CRITICS OF FOREIGN AID
TAKE DIFFERENT VIEW

Washington (AP) — The $4.1-billion foreign aid bill, under attack by critics on the House floor, got a boost Tuesday from President Kennedy who said "this is no time to slacken our efforts."

"However tired we may get of this program," Kennedy told his news conference, "our adversaries are not tired."

What would the critics of foreign aid do? The President asked. Would they halt the Alliance for Progress, stop aid to India, dismantle joint defenses along the perimeter of the Communist world, weaken U.S. friends in Asia?

Kennedy said the aid program provides security at low cost and most of the money actually is spent in the United States.

As the President read his statement in the State Department auditorium, some of the same arguments were being used in the House by supporters of the assistance program, both Democratic and Republican.

But Rep. H. R. Gross, R-Iowa, again called it a "global giveaway program" and heaped scorn upon it.

No Difference

"It makes no difference that $100 billion already has been spent out to every corner of the earth (since the end of World War II)," he said, "or that we have a $309-billion debt, or that the Treasury is busted."

Gross attacked what he called the "gall and effrontery" of Secretary of State Dean Rusk for testifying before the House Foreign Affairs Committee last April that those who would cut the program would be cooperating in effect with communism.

Rep. Frank Chelf, D-Ky., gave Gross an assist by shouting, "we are spending money we haven't got on people we don't know to impress people who hate our guts, isn't that about right?"

"That's about right," said Gross.

Kennedy mentioned at his news conference that more than half the Republicans on the committee supported the $4.1-billion authorization.

Record-Setting County Fair Gets Under Way

By GLENN KREUSCHER
Farm Editor

Records were broken Tuesday as 1,475 Lancaster county 4-H boys and girls arrived at the county fair with exhibits that totaled more than 3,000 home economics entries, 665 animals and nearly 150 demonstrations and associated projects.

"It's the biggest fair we have ever had," said Miss Frances Runty, county home extension agent.

Purple and blue ribbons were distributed among 96 horse entries, to set a new record for the 4-H horse show that was among the first events of the fair. (See Page 18).

The judging of home economics exhibits, sheep, swine, dairy and the Skirt and Blouse Review are main events for Wednesday's program. The beef show is Thursday morning.

One of the fair's highlights comes Thursday at 8 p.m. with the 4-H Purple Ribbon Show. This two-hour event features a parade of exhibitors and livestock with the winners of the dress revue presented in a ringside ceremony.

The fair will conclude Friday morning with the sale of beef, sheep and swine.

Viet Nam Reported Under Martial Law

Washington (AP) — State Department sources said early Tuesday that sketchy information has been received indicating the Diem government had imposed martial law in troubled South Viet Nam.

The presumption among sources here was that the regime of President Ngo Dinh Diem was cracking down on Buddhist opponents. Stringent martial law had ruled the Vietnamese city of Hue for several hours last Sunday after violence broke out following the death of a Buddhist monk by fire.

There were no reports here that the Diem government had been overthrown, or that the martial law had been imposed by a force other than the Diem regime.

However, communications with the Southeast Asian country were limited, and authorities here said they still did not have a clear picture of what was happening.

The South Vietnamese Embassy here reported it had received no direct word from Saigon on the situation.

In Tokyo, the U.S. Embassy said it had been informed that martial law had been declared in dissension-torn Saigon.

And the Tokyo office of Pan American Airways said it had received a message from its Saigon branch that the Saigon airport was closed for 24 hours to all commercial air traffic because of "internal difficulties."

Teller Says Reds Ahead; Opposes Test Ban

Washington (AP) — Dr. Edward Teller, disputing Pentagon estimates as exaggerated, declared Tuesday he believes Russia is ahead of the United States in perfecting a missile killer and has "more of a civil defense system than we have."

That, he said, is why Soviet Premier Khrushchev wants this country to join in the limited nuclear test ban treaty to halt all except underground explosions.

Teller, key physicist in fashioning the hydrogen bomb, said it would be "a tragic and dreadful" mistake for the Senate to ratify the pact. He described the treaty as "not a step for peace but rather a step away from safety, possibly a step toward war."

The Hungarian-born scientist, who came to this country in 1934, spelled out in thickly accented words his objections to the treaty in testimony before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. Members of the armed services and atomic energy committees also sat in, as they have since the hearings started.

Teller, conceding he is no diplomatic expert, said he realizes that failure to ratify the pact after so many nations have signed it might be a "small mistake" from the political aspect. But this, he said, would not endanger U.S. security.

Ratification, Teller declared, would be "an enormously bigger mistake."

New Evidence

Meanwhile, the senators got new evidence of Air Force coolness toward the pact when Gen. Bernard A. Schriever, head of the Air Force Systems Command, testified at a closed session of the Senate Preparedness Subcommittee.

Chairman John Stennis, D-Miss., told newsmen Schriever said he "felt he can carry out his mission better" without the treaty.

"He emphasized," Stennis said, "that although he had reasonable confidence in the survivability of our missile systems, we could never be certain and unresolved questions would remain if there is a prohibition on atmospheric testing."

Gen. Curtis E. LeMay, Air Force chief of staff, has endorsed the treaty reluctantly and Gen. Thomas S. Power, chief of the Strategic Air Command, opposed it as "not in the best interests of the United States."

The foreign relations committee expects to complete action on the treaty next week and Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield of Montana predicted a Senate vote shortly after Labor Day.

Speaking to newsmen after the weekly White House meeting of Democratic leaders, Mansfield said he expects a week of debate to be followed by ratification.

Teller focused his testimony on fear that Khrushchev "wants to stop the atmospheric tests and prevent us from obtaining the knowledge" he said Russian has on defending against oncoming missiles.

No Further

As for Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara's testimony that the Russians are probably no further ahead in the development of an anti-missile missile than the United States, the University of California physicist commented:

"How does he know? Our information about nuclear explosions by Russia is very limited."

"In more than 100 atmospheric explosions the Russians may have learned much about missile defense."

"Exaggeration"

Teller said he suspects "undue exaggeration" in Pentagon comparisons of U.S. and Soviet work in the anti-missile field. But he said he is not challenging the patriotism of McNamara, only judgments and adequacy of information.

Asked if he agrees with McNamara that development of anti-missile weapons can proceed even under the treaty test ban, Teller said he does, but added "I do not agree that we can complete it" without testing.

McNamara said the nuclear warhead is not the problem but the stickler is to perfect guidance, radar and other hardware. Teller said it should not be noted that McNamara did not mention deployment of such weapons and that this could "indicate a lack of knowledge" as to how to complete the job without testing.

THIRD MINER CONTACTED

Hazleton, Pa. (AP) — A third missing miner, who hadn't been heard from in nearly 40 hours, made contact Tuesday night with the other two who have been separated from him by debris 331 feet underground since a cave-in 8 days ago. He was reported alive but in weak condition.

David Fellin, 58, one of the trapped miners who has been communicating with authorities through a microphone lowered down a 6-inch hole, reported that he shouted the name of the third missing man, Louis Bova, 42, and heard Bova call back.

Fellin said he talked to Bova twice but could not determine what he said. He said Bova is weak and "I told him don't waste your energy."

Fellin reported he told Bova "if you hear me rap on the roof." Fellin said Bova rapped twice.

Bova's wife was at the mine when word spread contact had been made with him. She broke into tears and was taken home by state police.

Dramatic

The dramatic development came as rescue workers, in a second effort, were successful in drilling a twin 6-inch shaft 15 feet east of the one through which contact was established Sunday night with Fellin and Henry Throne, 28, and through which food and other supplies have been lowered to them.

But it could not be immediately determined where Bova was in relation to the second lifeline. Fellin reported to Gordon Smith, deputy state secretary of mines, that he did not know how far away Bova was.

Fellin reported Sunday all 3 were well and that he had been in touch with Bova. But communications with Bova were lost Monday morning and concern grew for his safety. Fellin said then that Bova apparently suffered a hip injury.

Joy, Joy, Joy

The grim atmosphere changed to one of joy as word spread among rescuers and some 100 onlookers that contact had been re-established. Bova's wife had never given up hope. The crowd cheered loudly, the long faces broke into smiles and cheers. Some in the crowd said it was a miracle, others called it an act of God.

Smith said Fellin saw the second shaft come through Tuesday night but at first heard nothing from Bova.

But, added Smith, "when the hole went through, Dave (Fellin) saw it coming through. He said to me, 'maybe you should drop it a couple more feet.' I told him you try to contact Louie (Bova) first. I don't want to put this drill down on top of him."

Then, according to Smith, that's when Fellin shouted Bova's name and heard him call back.

Smith said Fellin and Throne immediately renewed efforts to work toward Bova.

Send Nails

"I sent him down some nails," said Smith. He added that Fellin requested the nails to help shore up part of the tunnel as they dug toward Bova.

H. Beecher Charnbury, secretary of mines for Pennsylvania, was asked if he thought drilling of the twin 6-inch lifeline helped Bova.

"Maybe it just gave him extra hope," said Charnbury, explaining that Bova possibly heard the drilling and realized new efforts were being made to reach him.

Meanwhile, a giant drilling rig which had been boring an escape hole 24 inches in diameter in 3 stages through hard rock to Fellin and Throne temporarily halted operations at about 195 feet. This was done to allow clear communications between Fellin and authorities.

—10 MEN ON RUN— Europe-Wide Hunt Pushed

London (AP) — Scotland Yard Tuesday night sparked a Europe-wide hunt for 10 men on the run with possibly 100,000 pounds ($280,000) each in their pockets.

This represents about half the loot still missing from the record $7 million mail train robbery staged 13 days ago at Cheddington.

Underworld sources were reported to have told police that these 10 "wheelhorses" of the massive crime fanned out with their booty — over the British Isles, to the European continent.

Scotland Yard imposed a news blackout on the hunt for the gang ringleaders. Chief Supt. Thomas Butler, who is directing the search, abruptly canceled two press conferences and clamped a lid on news of police movements.

But later Scotland Yard said a trailer found Monday night near Dorking contained enough clues to indicate it might have been a temporary headquarters for the gang. The trailer was purchased by a couple, paid for in cash, and then abandoned.

Speaking up, however, was the first person likely to gain a slice of the rich rewards offered for recovery of loot. Mrs. Ethel Clark said she aims to give most of it to charity because it only cost her a threepence (about 6 cents) telephone call to give police her tip.

Gave Tip

Mrs. Clark, 68-year-old policeman's widow from Bourne-mouth, gave the tip last week which led police to catch their first two suspects and recover 141,000 pounds ($394,800). She probably would be given 10% of that amount, but Mrs. Clark demurred:

"I am not at all sure I am entitled to all that money. It does seem an awful lot for one phone call, and I do not really need it all."

To fill the news vacuum for an eager press and public, police issued an inventory and pictures of what they found in the robbers' original hideout — Leaderslade Farm, Oakley, a mile from the scene of the holdup.

Everything

This included supplies for at least a dozen men ranging from stacks of food and kitchen utensils to sleeping bags and candles.

A lot of the utensils came from army stores — pointing again to the possibility that service men were involved in the crime or that the robbers had access to army equipment.

With the front-paged pictures of the robbers' equipment went a police appeal: "Did you sell these goods to anyone, do you know where they came from?"

Experimenting

Meanwhile, the Bank of England disclosed it is experimenting with tell-tale dyes to use on paper money in transit by rail or truck.

Object of the exercise is to mark the bank notes in such a way that thieves would be unable to spend them.

A bank spokesman said one of the major problems is to develop a dye which will mark the bills without causing them to stick together.

FLYING NIGHTSTICK NEEDED

London (AP) — The man who invented one of the world's most effective anti-tank guns announced Tuesday he had patented a flying nightstick to foil robbers.

"It's time these holdup men were taught a lesson," said Col. Latham Valentine Stewart Blacker, 76, inventor of the infantry antitank (Plat) weapon of World War II.

"If they had had a few of these devices on that mail train, the robbery would have failed," he said.

The colonel's flying nightstick has a rubber nose, a tiny motor and carries tear gas.

"It's accurate up to 100 yards," explained the inventor, "and it's not lethal. It will knock the bandit over and stun him, but it won't kill him," he said.

He explained that even if the flying nightstick misses the holdup man, the thick stream of tear gas it carries, will hinder his getaway.

"It packs the punch of the hind feet of an unshod mule," added the colonel.

He said the anti-bandit weapon can be produced for under one pound ($2.80).

"Every security guard should carry one," he said. For his invention of the Plat antitank gun, the colonel was paid 32,000 pounds ($89,600).

Saying it had taken him 3 years to perfect the flying nightstick, Col. Blacker added: "I was asked to produce something on these lines by the chief constable of West Sussex. Now the Home Office, which supervises Scotland Yard, is showing an interest."

Toxic Fumes Hospitalize 5 G.I. Firemen

Chemicals In Storage Are Under Watch

4-Story Brick Building Lost

Grand Island (AP) — Five Grand Island firemen were in the hospital late Tuesday, overcome by fumes from a fire which burned for 11 hours and looked like it would continue until dawn Wednesday at the earliest.

Fire Chief Richard Simpson said that he wasn't sure what chemicals were contained in the building, but that it was clear to him that the fumes were of a toxic nature.

Simpson said he knew that there was some sort of distillate stored in the west side of the building because "every now and then a bottle would blow up." He said he knew there was ammonia nitrate base for much of the chemicals stored in the building.

Smoke continued to billow Tuesday night through the northeast part of town, where there is a sales barn and a number of homes. Residents were told to close their windows.

Discovered at 5:30 a.m. at the former Fairmont Foods plant, now owned by Delicious Foods Co., manufacturer of onion rings, the blaze obviously started in the basement in the cork-lined cooling room, Chief Simpson said.

Fire got into the cork, he said, forcing firemen to rip into the cork walls to get at the root of the fire.

About 8 a.m., the fire made its way to the elevator and went to the roof. Simpson said an elevator jammed with merchandise made it difficult for firemen to get water to the roof.

The 4-story brick building was destroyed. Only the basement of the structure was in use, the upper 3 floors being used only for storage.

Simpson, who had been on the scene since the first fire call, said he planned to remain until the fire is out.

In Los Angeles, a spokesman for the California Chemical Co., a subsidiary of Standard Oil of California, confirmed that a call was made to Grand Island when it was learned of the fire.

The spokesman said he didn't know what kind of fumes or acids may have been involved. The call, he added, was a "general preventive measure we would take in case there is a toxic fume or water. This is the procedure to follow in all chemical fires."

After receiving the call, Simpson roped off the area and sent out word that the fumes were dangerous.

Red China Denies It Is Increasing Troop Strength

Tokyo (AP) — Red China's Foreign Ministry denied Tuesday an Indian claim that the Chinese army is building up its troop strength along the Indian-Chinese border.

In a statement issued by the ministry's spokesman and quoted by the New China News Agency in a broadcast monitored here, it said the Indian charge was a "groundless fabrication."

The Chinese statement was in reply to Indian Prime Minister Nehru's charges that the Chinese had brought fresh troops into Tibet and increased the strength of their forces on the Himalayan border with India.

Gov. Morrison drives covered wagon through new stretch of Interstate 80 from Grand Island to Kearney. Along for the ride are Harold, Mike and Greg Nutter of Gibbon.

Morrison Helps Open New Interstate Stretch

By JUDI LEE

Outstate Nebraska Bureau
Grand Island — The new 40-mile Platte Valley route of Interstate 80, characterized by several wayside ponds, was officially opened and dedicated by Gov. Frank Morrison and a motorcade escorted by the Safety Patrol Tuesday.

The new sector raises the total of interstate mileage in Nebraska open to traffic to about 130.

Special feature of the ceremonies was an antiquated horse-drawn covered wagon, driven through the Gibbon exchange barriers by the governor.

The demonstration was in commemoration of the state's pioneering days when settlers trudged down the Mormon Trail, just one mile north of the exchange.

During the traditional ribbon cutting ceremonies, Gov. Morrison called the sector "a part of the industrial and recreational development of the state."

Also participating in ceremonies were L. C. Schuster, Hastings mayor; Norm Mildestein, representing Grand Island; Donald Underhill, representing Doniphan; and others.

The governor led the motorcade, composed of town officials from Grand Island, Hastings, Wood River, Shelton, Kearney and other nearby towns.

Coffee Break
The stream of traffic was treated to a coffee break and boat show at the Wood River exchange. The sail boat exhibition depicted the recreational activities the ponds may be used for by the public.

The show and coffee break was sponsored by the Wood River Businessmen's Association.

Again the motorcade halted at the Kearney exit, where the governor and local officials sawed through the wooden "Road Closed" barriers.

The ceremonies concluded with a luncheon at Kearney State College.

As well as opening a long stretch of safer, more convenient highway, the new sector relieves considerable traffic from the now congested U.S. 30, a major east-west route.

MOSQUE FALLS IN INDIAN CITY

Bombay, India (AP) — Fifty or more people were killed and 100 others were believed trapped in debris when an old mosque collapsed Tuesday at Yeotmal, 360 miles east of Bombay.

Official reports said 50 bodies had been recovered from the wreckage.

Most victims were reported to be women and children.

Senators Coming Back

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

State senators will be coming back to Lincoln this fall to take up a number of subjects to be included in the call of the Legislature that Gov. Frank Morrison has now promised to issue. The governor has taken his position even prior to hearing the final recommendation of a legislative study committee in the matter of the state's confused time sales picture. Time sales will be the major cause of the governor's call but he will include, as of this moment, at least three other issues.

Nebraska is in a fix on the matter of time sales primarily because it has tried to cover too much of the waterfront. It has attempted to regulate interest in too great a variety of cases and under a variety of circumstances. As a result, it has come up with laws that are not constitutional in the matter of equality and justice. A law must have a very substantial degree of universality in both subject matter and applicability. In fact, in its application it must be completely universal, applying equally to all people who come under its terms.

Thus, it is most difficult to have a law on maximum interest rates covering loans under one set of circumstances and another law covering rates under a different set of circumstances. Nor is it possible to do much by way of changing the common meaning and understanding of interest as a charge for the use of money or the extension of credit.

When the Legislature comes back to take up this matter of interest rates, it is hoped that it approaches the subject with a little more simplicity and sincerity than has been the case in the past. If the Legislature lets any segment of the lending industry write the bill, then we can expect to have a problem of one kind or another again in the future.

The senators should not complicate the situation with a diversity of rates for a variety of situations. It would seem advisable for the senators to settle on two general principles — a maximum general interest rate and a maximum time sales rate. There is nothing apparently wrong with the existing law in regard to regular standard loans of money. Traditional lending agencies can loan funds at rates up to 9 per cent which is sufficient for them and not disastrous from the public's point of view. But a vast part of the public is seldom concerned with this kind of loan. This is the kind of loan that many people will experience perhaps only a few times in their lives.

What most people live with in the world of loans is the time sales business. This differs from a regular loan largely in the manner of paying it off. This is the kind of loan you get and pay back in installments over a period of 12, 24 or 36 months, for instance. It is the kind of loan that is made to customers by stores who permit an account to be paid over a long period of time by payments fixed automatically by the size of the balance of the account. This is the kind of loan used by thousands of people in their purchase of cars and household furnishings. It is substantially different from the business type loan made by banks and other more commercial lending agencies. It is a form of credit with pitfalls as well as advantages and conveniences for the American people.

The idea behind much of the so-called time sales business is convenience for people. It permits them to enjoy some of the more luxurious things of life sooner than might otherwise be the case by extending to them a line of credit that previously was not open to them.

Such credit, also, is largely unsecured in comparison to that which is extended in the course of business expansion and industrial growth. How much security is it when a loan is backed up by a car, TV set, refrigerator, carport, etc? Anyone who has tried to sell such items on the used products market knows that first-year depreciation is pretty destructive.

An item can be new on the floor of a merchant today and old in the home of a customer tomorrow.

And in the course of that day, its value can be cut by a third or more. Thus, there is a risk to this kind of lending that would seem to demand more than the regular 9 per cent maximum interest. Also, the system extends credit to far more people who are a personal risk in themselves than was ever the case under more conventional methods of prior times. This, however, does not mean the sky is the limit. The Legislature should not permit a rate that allows lending agencies to extend credit indiscriminately with the honest borrower bearing the load for his dishonest neighbor.

We cannot conceive of a demand with any justice for a true and actual interest rate in excess of 25 per cent per year. If the general usury rate is fixed to be in excess of 9 per cent and time sales are fixed to a true and actual maximum of 25 per cent and no other complicating factors involved, the Legislature would solve the problem and appear to be well within the confines that have been set so far by the courts.

On The Main Line

Interests in the Big Blue watershed are slowly but surely getting a major conservation and flood control project in motion.

Latest step was initiated by Gage and Saline counties asking the help of 14 state and federal agencies in the planning and promotion of a total program.

As put by Virgil Rossiter, DeWitt, chairman of the movement, "We now realize as we did not before, that this program, if properly organized and executed, is of such magnitude that state and federal assistance is a must."

This is a significant clarification of the problem and an indication that the Blue River concept is maturing. This is in contrast to the attitude of the valley shortly after World War II. At the prospect of an Army Engineers survey of the watershed the communities either expressed outright opposition or neutrality. This is not unusual. Major conservation projects connote radical changes and seldom fall into place overnight. This has been especially true in eastern Nebraska where abundant rainfall and acceptance of floods have delayed the demand for major water management.

The Blue Valley is not new to conservation, but it has persisted in the belief that limited and local efforts were the more desirable. There have been many of these, but non has conquered the overall problem of soil erosion and ever-normal production.

Under the most favorable circumstances the conservation of the valley is a generation away. That is a long time in terms of soil loss and economic competition. But it is significant that the picture has grown clear and the will to progress has emerged. It speaks confidently of the future of one of the most fertile sections of Nebraska.

What's In A Name?

Mr. Shakespeare knew a good many years ago that a man's name was a valued piece of goods. He said it so well, as he did so many things, that his way of saying it has become well known to each succeeding generation. He wrote:

"Who steals my purse steals trash; 'tis something, nothing; 'Twas mine, 'tis his, and has been slave to thousands; But he that filches from me my good name Robs me of that which not enriches him. And makes me poor indeed."

The words constitute a truth that can strike up all kinds of emotions or reactions. A publisher, for instance, will often have to find the right path between reporting that which should be reported and merely "filching" someone's good name.

Colorado Is Angry

The Denver Post has a strong voice which carries well and adds to the majesty of Pikes Peak and other natural upheavals that characterize the Rocky Mountain area.

But it was never in better voice when it addressed a rejoinder to a snide assault by Life Magazine on the federal public works program. Life devoted its cover page to a warning of the public against a $3 billion dollar federal pork barrel.

Colorado figures largely in the program, about two-thirds of which contemplate development of the upper Colorado River, plus projects on the Arkansas river.

We sympathize with Colorado. It is a state which has made a manifold effort to bless the nation by the constructive development of its resources and none that we know of is by any stretch of imagination of a pork barrel character.

Conservation and resources development constitute a sound and profitable investment. A homestead act which provided raw land at bargain rates to thousands of Americans resulted in the present Middle West. Hoover Dam is returning far more to the public welfare than its cost. Our own Lake McCaughy has been a boon both to the nation and to the state. One cannot classify the harnessing of the Columbia river as a piece of pork barrel.

In an ever-growing America, the greater utilization of resources strengthens the national fiber while creating occupations for an increasing population.

Instead of being criticized Colorado is to be complimented for its determination to be a first rate state in a first rate country. It is true that what is good for a state is good for the nation.

Life Magazine had better gets its air conditioner fixed.

Khrushchev Calls Arms Race Absurd

GAGRA, Georgia, U.S.S.R. — Premier Nikita Khrushchev has informed me, in the first exclusive interview after the test ban treaty, that the Soviet would proceed with arms reduction whether the United States reduced or not. "In the field of economics we will compete with you, but we won't compete with you on war preparation," he said.

The interview took place near the dark blue waters of the Black Sea beside Khrushchev's beautiful swimming pool which he demonstrated to Mrs. Agnes Meyer who participated in the interview. The communist leader was very frank, friendly and careful to say nothing which might upset the new era of better understanding between the USA and the USSR. He also discussed Berlin, a possible summit meeting, the late Pope John and prevention of surprise attack.

His statement on unilateral disarmament came after I recalled a previously published admonition by President John F. Kennedy to Air Force General Curtis LeMay that generals did not need the capacity to destroy Russian cities several thousand times. "General LeMay knows full well his capacity for overkill," replied Khrushchev using Pentagon parlance for estimating the over-kill of an enemy, "but he's under pressure from the arms monopolies which are trying to get as many war orders as possible."

"Regardless of whether the United States stops increasing its arms budget or not we are going to stop increasing ours because we have enough of all these things. You have a lot of dollars and you can go on spending but we will not do that. In the economic field, we will compete with you, but we won't compete with you in war preparation."

"I believe President Kennedy said the United States could destroy the Soviet Union several times; I can't remember how many times. He also said the Soviet Union could destroy the United States several times. Now, isn't this convincing proof that the arms race is absurd?"

"Even without an agreement with the United States, we are not going to spend all this money on arms. For 1964, we will have an arms budget at the same level of 1963 or even less, and in 1965 we will probably reduce allocations for the military even further."

"I will tell you about an episode which occurred about two years ago when we were discussing the reduction of arms. This was a discussion inside our own government," Khrushchev explained. "Some said it was better to link arms reduction with the disarmament talks in Geneva, but we finally told our people it was better to handle it unilaterally because if we tied arms reduction to the talks at Geneva, we would never get anywhere."

"This is what happened. The Geneva talks are still going on but we've reduced arms unilaterally. We've saved fantastic funds and our fire-power is not weaker. It is greater. The military," Khrushchev concluded, "sometimes don't know when to stop."

Easy Going Husbands Have The Better Life Expectancy

NEW YORK — In spite of what books, mothers, mores and personal greed tell a girl — the best man she can marry is an easy going character who would rather have fun than money.

This picture of comfortable indolence is the modern woman's concept of a wastrel. But he is a nice, long-lived wastrel.

On the other hand, the driving, forward-pushing, potential millionaire is every woman's portrait of a "good catch." But he is also a marriage risk.

"The chief causes of coronary attacks," a pair of doctors on the West Coast revealed, "are the two A's: anger and ambition." The brightest men often are students of the two A's.

Doctors claim they can spot a potential heart attack victim, even when he is a young man. He is apt to:

1. Use frequent, emphatic gestures, particularly clenched fists, when he talks.
2. Plan his next day's activities in advance, tensely figuring out how much business he can squeeze into it.
3. Hate "wasting" time, even for pleasure.
4. Think one step ahead of the person he's conversing with: chronically interrupting a conversation with a new idea.

The West Coast examiners made a test for "coronary potential" in their men patients. They divided them into two categories. In group A, they put the competitive, ambitious and emotional men. In group B, they listed the moderate men, with less drive and lesser goals. Over a period of years, there was 700 per cent more heart disease among those men in group A!

But anger and ambition are scarcely worse, in causing heart trouble, than ordinary stress which many fine, solid hard-working face in their jobs. A paper published by the American Heart Association reveals that, for instance, doctors suffer unusual stress:

A team of researchers "found that the work of the heart in surgeons was higher when they performed surgery" than it was when they were actively exercising. "A surgeon working at an energy expenditure rate approximately one third less than a steel worker may have an increase in heart work four or five times greater."

The researchers concluded that "the changes in the body which condition health or disease are determined as much by what the job means to the workman as by how much energy it requires."

As we suggested — an easy-going man, more interested in fun than in work, is safest.

Nikita Readies New Sales Trip

WASHINGTON — Premier Khrushchev is turning traveling salesman to try to capitalize on his policy of peaceful coexistence. Along with other journeys being prepared for a crowded schedule he expects to go to Cuba in September or early October.

That, at least, is what he told United Nations Secretary General U Thant at the time of the signing of the nuclear test-ban treaty in Moscow. But the secretary general reported afterward that he is convinced Khrushchev will not come to New York for the meeting of the U.N. General Assembly, despite rumors to the contrary.

If the Soviet premier were to fly from Havana to New York thousands of Cuban refugees would seize the opportunity to demonstrate. The threat would be a repetition of the chaos of the 1959 assembly session when battalions of New York police were called out to hold back the demonstrators. The appearance of Khrushchev would be the signal for other heads of government to flock in compounding the chaos.

Why Khrushchev should choose this time for a visit to Fidel Castro is the subject of wide speculation among government specialists on communism. Is he coming to reconfirm the allegiance to the Soviet Union, as against Red China, which appeared to be sealed during Castro's stay in Russia this past spring? Whatever the prejudices and predilections of the bearded Cuban in the ideological field, the only source of substantial aid is the U.S.S.R.

Another possibility intrigues the official Kremlinologists. Is he prepared to announce in Havana that since Castro's own forces have been brought to a high degree of training all Russian combat troops have therefore been removed? His visit to Cuba would, in itself, stir anew all the intense emotional and political feelings in this country over the presence of a Communist-dominated dictatorship just off America's shores.

This would cast a long shadow of doubt over whether there is any real desire in Moscow for an easing of tensions. But Khrushchev might figure that by announcing the troop removal he would take out some of the sting. The speculation throws into sharp perspective the continuing dilemma of Cuba and the role it is likely to play in both domestic and international politics.

Khrushchev's tentative travel plans are said to call for a visit to a key nonaligned nation. He seems determined to go out and make political hay just as Congress is preparing to clamp down on the means by which the administration hopes to hold the nonaligned countries with the West. The Soviet premier is in Yugoslavia for a combined vacation and exchange of views with Marshal Tito on his luxury island of Brioni as the question of most-favored-nation tariff treatment for the Yugoslavs and the Poles comes up here.

A review of Khrushchev's motives in the break with China and the signing of the test-ban treaty shows him once again to be the shrewd realist rather than the doctrinaire Marxist concerned with an ideological dispute. The quarrel over ideology between Peking and Moscow appears to be largely window dressing concealing some far-reaching practical differences.

Although it has been carefully shrouded in secrecy, the belief here is that Khrushchev several years ago asked Peking for the right to establish Soviet bases on China's soil. He wanted particularly a naval base on the China coast since Vladivostok, Russia's only warm-water port on the Pacific, is too remote.

But, also, the Russians had plans for a sizable air base in China linked to the defense of the Far East. Mao Tse-tung said no.

The primary Khrushchev motives are security and production, with the latter dominant. One of the wisest experts compared him the other day to the head of a big American corporation who puts production ahead of everything else. And the productive capacity of the communist bloc becomes for Khrushchev a measure of what communism can achieve in the contest between the two systems.

During the signing ceremony in Moscow Khrushchev needed the Americans he talked with about the fact that while West Germany was selling the Soviet Union entire fertilizer plants the United States had refused to accept such orders. Following the techniques of Russell Garst of Coon Rapids, Iowa, Khrushchev is out to step up the use of chemical fertilizers to get something approaching the Garst yield of more than a hundred bushels to the acre. Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman brought back an optimistic report about Soviet agriculture. Other specialists believe Khrushchev is still a long way from solving his farm problem.

One thing is self-evident in Khrushchev's travel plans: He is supremely self-confident that his own people support his policy.

Two Bills

Lincoln, Neb. The people of the state of Nebraska who have children should be concerned with the passage of LB109 relating to the purchase, attempt to purchase or possession of alcoholic beverages, because they will have to pay the excessive fines imposed by LB109 as well as share the shame of having their children become criminals.

What minor has the $250 to pay a fine? It is ironic it is to think that this will correct the situation. LB109 was introduced by Senator Marvin E. Stromer. He does not have any children so he shouldn't be affected by this bill.

Then LB21 which he also introduced relates to bottle club operations and closing time. This bill just legalizes the operation and restricts the time that anyone can enjoy himself. He doesn't think that we have the fortitude or the intelligence to do this for ourselves. We have to be regulated by legislation as to when or what time we can enjoy one of our remaining liberties. I hope the WCTU and the Lincoln League of Women Voters and the rest of these self-appointed censors of the public are happy with these two bills.

JOSEPH KOLUCH

Danger In Lakes

Fremont, Neb. Thanks to John Cutright for freeing the Fremont lakes to all swimmers, good or bad, so they can go out anywhere, supervised or not, and drown or be run down by a boat.

A letter to the Game Commission explaining the situation and getting it righted quickly without all the publicity would have been much better and a lot more sensible.

My family and our friends use the Fremont lakes a lot and the Game Commission people have been wonderful to us, which we appreciate. I only hope this individual's actions don't set back the improvements planned for these lakes, as we and many, many others enjoy them immensely.

John Cutright should be held responsible for any death or injury because of swimming in non-approved areas.

CAMPING ENTHUSIAST

Hallam Trip

Kansas City, Mo. Among the points of interest through Nebraska, we were fascinated with the Sheldon Station at Hallam. So few understand its purpose, fearing that it is a deep subject and only for adults. It should intrigue any youngster eleven years old and up. There is the explaining by the men in charge about the flame that heats the boiler, through the moment of power from light bulb, home, hospital and unbelievable other uses.

It is a wonderful trip for Scouts, grade school science classes, etc. Anyone who is interested should drop a card and make arrangements for a trip through this exciting plant to see what Nebraska is doing that is of great importance. It is well worth the time.

REX WHITE

Dislikes Town

Lincoln, Neb. Until a few years ago, Lincoln was a nice place to live, but not any more. The city fathers had better wake up and do something before it's too late.

The wages are the poorest here of any of the states and the taxes are outrageous and going up each year. We hear about all those who move into Lincoln, but nothing is ever said about how many are moving out. People should be able to figure this out with all the empty houses, apartments and store buildings that can be seen. There are six empty store buildings from 9th and O Streets to 16th and O, and plenty of others right downtown on other streets.

Anyone who is content to live in Lincoln is either awfully ignorant or doesn't want anyone to leave. And as far as factories are concerned, Lincoln would be much better off with a few. Maybe the stores would have some business, then.

If someone would take a poll of the way Lincoln people really feel about the town at the present time, I am sure we would be surprised. If I were 20 years younger and not too old to start over somewhere else, I would have been out of here long ago.

FED UP

Outdoing Us

Lincoln, Neb. Your weekly magazine, Parade, notes that the new status symbol among big time executives is a British secretary. If you haven't got one, you're nothing.

I could indulge that pretty folly, but for one thing. Business Week, another magazine, is telling me that the Japanese are making us look pretty sick when it comes to top night products. They have built a railroad between Osaka and Tokyo that runs better than 200 miles an hour. That takes some doing. They are excellent in cameras, sewing machines and sophisticated electronics equipment. If you ride on one of our passenger trains, the odds are the wheels came from Japan.

Other foreign countries are making better products than we are. Even our fine new pre-stressed concrete derives from processes developed in Europe.

British secretaries may be very nice and the pecking order among our executives may be vital to them. But a country that emphasizes such things at the expense of world leadership in design and production of goods is a country that won't be first-rate very long.

What this country needs is some first-class firings.

Mac Writes Memoirs; 10-Day Notice On Bomb

New York (AP) — Gen. Douglas MacArthur, disclosing he has written his memoirs, said Tuesday he was informed of the existence of the atom bomb only 10 days before it fell on Hiroshima.

The allied supreme commander in the Pacific in World War II said he had no part "in any way, shape or manner" in the decision to drop the bomb. He did not indicate whether he approved use of the weapon.

MacArthur, 83, reminisced about the Far East in one of his rare news conferences. He told of writing the 200,000 word manuscript in longhand during the past 6 months to "fill the gap insofar as my own part was concerned," during his long career. He declined any comment on current affairs.

Rights Purchased
Henry R. Luce, editor-in-chief of Life magazine and other Time, Inc., publications, said Life magazine had purchased all rights, including motion picture and television. The price was not disclosed, but there were indications it would run well into 6 figures.

The magazine will publish the memoirs in installments, starting early next year. McGraw Hill & Co. will publish the manuscript in book form at about the same time.

MacArthur, spry and good-humored, wore a dark suit, dark tie and white shirt as he appeared in the auditorium of the Time-Life building to meet newsmen.

Narrowed Questioning
The decision of the 5-star general—now board chairman of Sperry Rand Corp.—not to discuss current events narrowed questioning almost entirely to the Pacific.

Concerning the atomic bomb, dropped in 1945 on Ord-

Harry S. Truman, MacArthur was asked how he felt about not being notified of the weapon until 10 days before the bombing.

"I felt no sense of neglect at all," he replied. "The whole project was a secret project and there was absolutely no reason to consult a theater commander 10,000 miles away on such matters."

Impact
To a question, whether, in view of his Asiatic experience, he might have been able to give some advice on the probable psychological impact of the bombing, MacArthur said:

"The use of the bomb was a matter that was decided by superior authority to my own without consultation to me..."

MacArthur said the book would deal in part with his free world forces in Korea in 1951 by President Truman.

"Do you think the details of your recall from Korea are more explained in your memoirs than in any other publication to this date?" he was asked.

'Own Views'
"I wouldn't make any such claim at all," MacArthur said. "I have documented everything of importance in reference to it. I have given my own views. Others may differ."

A questioner, without referring specifically to Korea, asked whether he felt "a need to write this book to cover your side of the story."

"To some extent, yes," MacArthur said. "I have thought that the mass of misinformation and a lack of information on many of the incidents that occurred requires some further exposition of the real facts."

Communists Overrun Showplace Hamlet

Saigon, South Viet Nam (UPI)—Communist Guerrillas have overrun and destroyed most of the strategic hamlet of Ben Tuong, built with U. S. aid to contain just such attacks, military sources disclosed Tuesday.

Ben Tuong, the showplace of the strategic hamlet program is located among the Communist-filled rubber plantations in Binh Duong Province 30 miles north of Saigon. It once was visited by Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara and Gen. Lyman L. Lemnitzer.

Military sources said the guerrillas attacked and overran the hamlet before dawn Monday, meeting no resistance as they burned 137 of the hamlet's nearly 200 houses. They also blew the roof off the hamlet hall and demolished a nearby brick watchtower used by the militia.

Ben Tuong was built in March, 1962, the first strategic hamlet in the American-backed "operation sunrise"—a much heralded project to clear Communist Viet Cong guerrillas from their long-time stronghold in the area.

Ben Tuong and 3 other original hamlets in the Sunrise project proved to be mainly a boopdoggle because they had been built too deeply in Communist territory to be supported and protected without heavy troop commitments. More than $50,000 in U.S. aid and much Vietnamese resources went into the project. Most of the people in the hamlets had been forced to move into the protected areas and many remained sympathetic to the Viet Cong. The remainder apparently did not commit themselves.

Fled To Jungle
Most of the young men of families in the hamlet fled into the jungle with the guerrillas and never returned to their families. But some of them did Monday—and helped burn the houses of their own relatives.

Military support gradually was withdrawn from the hamlets over the past 6 months and they were left largely on their own. A small squad of militia was charged with defending Ben Tuong. It was outside laying a night ambush in the jungle when the Viet Cong attacked.

24 GREEN STAMPS

The treasure island of Puerto Rico is roughly oblong: 100 miles long and 35 miles wide. A range of mountains divides it lengthwise.

The north-east trade wind brings an almost daily tropical shower—a clatter of wind in the coco palms followed by a drenching downpour. It lasts about 20 minutes. The sun comes out and the greenery flashes a million water diamonds.

All along the road to Ponce, on the south coast, the second largest city, the police were out.

The bus and taxi drivers were on strike all over the island.

They shook nails along the major roads to stop other transportation. And the police cars had rigged a pair of brooms, tied to the bumper, in front of the tires. They swept the road in front of them.

It was a warm tropical day with lightning flashing and thunder cracking like cannon fire in the mountains.

Along the winding roads, children had set up little fruit stands—something like the home lemonade stands that were the business ventures of my childhood.

They had the richest avocados I have ever eaten, for 5 cents. They had big, green globes of breadfruit. (Descendants of the ones, no doubt, that Captain Bligh brought on his next voyage after the Bounty mutiny.)

They sold big yellow bananas and brown, spiny pineapples. Guavas and a green fruit that looked like the Mexican zapote. They had iced coconuts ready to split for the milk and iced juice of sugar cane.

The mountains are full of roadside stores called Colmados—a little papa-mama store.

There are roadside bars where you can get anything from rum to Coca Cola. They have wonderful names—"Here I Wait For Thee."

The island's density of population is a great problem—750 to the square mile is the last figure I heard.

The birth rate is one of the highest. The infant mortality rate—that terrible leveler of populations—has been lowered by modern medicine.

In the mid-1950s, Puerto Ricans left the island for the United States at the rate of 70,000 a year. Now with improved job opportunities under the Commonwealth, it dropped 1st year to 4798.

"Nobody will be quoted on this," a friend of mine told me, "but we must stop this fearful birth rate. Last year, 15,000 Puerto Ricans died. In the same year, we had 75,000 children born."

"With Puerto Ricans who return from the United States, we grow 59,000 people a year."

Government leaders have met with heads of the Catholic Church to find out just what would be acceptable in a public health program to push birth control.

It has not been very successful in this Spanish-speaking land.

The ties to Catholicism and Spain are so strong that Spain has built a colony, 40 miles from Madrid, for retired Puerto Ricans.

"We are citizens of the United States in a Commonwealth position," a politician told me. "But when I retire, I will retire in Spain. We are Americans. But we speak of you as 'you Americans.' Of Spain we say, 'our mother Spain.'"

In San Juan, I was told "The Government housing program is mainly along the highways—where tourists will see it."

I found this was not so. All through the hills you see fine, small, concrete houses. Well painted and well kept. Only occasionally do you see a left-over shack from the days when Puerto Rico was an American possession and known as "The Poorhouse of the Caribbean."

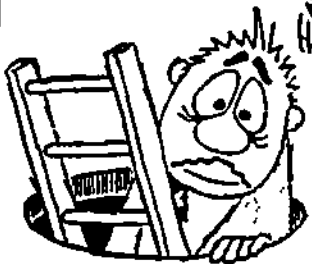

All along the road the children splashed home in the rain. (The buses were stopped by the strike.) They were soaked and happy to have a good reason to get soppy wet and cool.

Even in remote parts between towns, you are never out of sight of school children on the roads. And houses with the front yard always decorated by a brown, bare body playing in the rain.

—WALTERS GETS SEAT—

Conservative Demo Succeeds Kefauver

Nashville, Tenn. — Herbert S. Walters, self-made East Tennessee millionaire, was named to the U.S. Senate Monday to succeed the late Estes Kefauver.

Walters, little known to the public but a political power in this state for over a quarter century, immediately endorsed the limited nuclear test ban treaty and the Kennedy administration's proposals for a tax cut.

He sidestepped questions on the President's civil rights legislation, saying he hadn't "had an opportunity to study it."

In contrast to Kefauver's espousal of liberal causes and investigation of monopolies, Walters is expected to reflect the conservative businessman's approach. "He is not given to extreme positions," his hometown newspaper, the Morristown Gazette and Mail, said editorially.

The appointment of the 71-year-old Democratic national committeeman was announced by Gov. Frank Clement at a special news conference. It had been generally expected since Kefauver's death Aug. 10.

Walters' appointment is effective until next year's general election when the voters will choose someone to serve the remaining two years of Kefauver's term.

Clement May Run
Clement has indicated he might run for the unexpired term in the 1964 Democratic primary, as has Rep. Ross Bass, D-Tenn.

Walters, a road contractor and industrialist, is not expected to be a candidate in that election.

"I have no political ambitions other than to do a good job as a Tennessee senator," he told newsmen who asked about his future plans.

One Term

Other than one term in the state legislature in 1933, Walters — his friends call him "Hub" — has never held elective office. He preferred to work behind the scenes.

"My interest always has been to help the fellow who couldn't help himself," Walters said recently.

He worked actively for the wing of the Democratic party that has controlled the state capitol most of the time since World War II, but stayed on the sidelines during Kefauver's campaigns.

Walters is active in civic, church and philanthropic affairs in Morristown. He is married and has no children.

The son of a Baptist minister, Walters went into business while still in his teens. He built a construction firm that handles work throughout the southeast.

Walters speaks with a raspy voice, the result of surgery for throat cancer in 1952.

Interrupted

Clement interrupted his attendance at the Southern Governor's Conference in White Sulphur Springs, W.Va., to return here for the announcement of Walters' appointment.

The governor said he picked Walters because of his "background, foresight, fortitude, calmness in his evaluations and resoluteness in his actions."

Soldiers, Police Fire Shots, Throw Tear Gas Into Saigon Pagoda

By NEIL SHEEHAN
Saigon, South Viet Nam (UPI) — Soldiers and policemen fired pistol shots and threw tear gas grenades Tuesday into the big Buddhist Xa Loi Pagoda. More than 100 Buddhist monks who had been demonstrating there against the government were arrested.

Troops also raided 3 other pagodas in Saigon in the latest, most serious, flare-up of violence in the 3-month-old religious-political dispute between the Buddhist majority in South Viet Nam and the government of Ngo Dinh

Diem, Roman Catholic president. It was not determined whether there were any deaths or injuries in the pagoda raids. The violence occurred 24 hours after it was learned that Vietnamese military chiefs have been warned by Diem's brother, Ngo Dinh Nhu, that the government faces an inevitable coup d'etat.

This correspondent learned that the 52-year-old Nhu, husband of the beautiful and politically powerful Mme. Nhu, ordered military leaders to destroy Saigon and retreat with loyal forces to a prepared stronghold outside the city when the coup takes place. The orders were issued by Nhu last Friday at a secret meeting of 30 generals and ranking colonels. Nhu is his brother's closest adviser.

"We are engaged in a process of development which makes a coup inevitable," Nhu reportedly told the officers. He was quoted as saying the coup would be planned and executed by dissatisfied intellectuals backed by unspecified Western interests.

Nhu reportedly told the officers to surround Saigon with loyal soldiers and raze the capital rather than fight rebels in the streets. The military chiefs were told that forces in the coup could not hold the city for more than 3 months.

It was the second time in a month that Nhu had met with the officers. After the first meeting, there were reports that Nhu himself might be planning a coup to overthrow his brother's regime.

Nhu said the question of a possible coup was brought up at the first meeting "to encourage free discussion" among the generals.

In an interview two weeks later, he was quoted as saying a coup was possible if the Buddhist problem was not settled quickly.

Some sources believe Nhu feels that his brother has been too soft with the Buddhists. Mme. Nhu, a Catholic convert from Buddhism, has said that she has no sympathy with Buddhists who "barbecue" themselves in fiery immolations. Five such suicides have occurred.

The pagoda raids were staged early Tuesday. This correspondent lives next door to the Xa Loi Pagoda and was awakened by terrific grenade explosions. Tear gas smoke could be seen rising from inside the walls.

The big pagoda has been the scene of frequent clashes between Buddhist demonstrators against alleged religious persecution by the predominantly Roman Catholic government and soldiers and secret police.

Only Sunday more than 15,000 persons staged an all-day sit down hunger strike in front of the pagoda to protest the policies of President Ngo Dinh Diem and of his sister-in-law, Mme. Ngo Dinh Nhu. The Buddhists charge religious persecution by the Diem government. Madame Nhu, one of the most outspoken opponents of the Buddhists has accused them of treason, murder and Communist tactics and referred to their fiery self-immolation by burning themselves to death with gasoline as "barbecues."

Violence has also been reported in the ancient capital of Hue and other Buddhist centers. Martial law was imposed Tuesday in the coastal city of Danang after demonstrators clashed with soldiers during a Buddhist mass march.

NPPC Will Outline Generation Needs

The industry-oriented Nebraska Public Power Committee (NPPC) agreed here Tuesday to present a comprehensive report on the state's future generation needs to the State Power Review Board Sept. 18.

The review board has asserted it intends to take an active lead in determining who should build any future generation plants in the state.

The report, to be assembled by a special NPPC subcommittee, will show anticipated electrical load growths in Nebraska and will give a picture of future electrical needs.

10 Times

At Tuesday's meeting, NPPC chairman C. F. (Pat) Moulton presented a report showing that by 1976 the needs of the Omaha Public Power District (OPPD) will be 10 times what they were in 1950.

Moulton is general manager of OPPD.

He said to meet growing demands, OPPD tentatively has scheduled new generating units at North Omaha to be installed in 1967 and 1969. Each will generate about 160,000 kilowatts of power, he added.

Pointing to the 10-fold increase in electrical use in OPPD territory, Moulton said this is typical of what is happening statewide.

The Nebraska Public Power System has said it anticipates a new unit by Consumers Public Power District at Hallam to be in service in 1966, followed by a 106,000 kilowatt unit at Grand Island by 1968 and another Consumers unit to be ready by 1970. In addition, some municipal

Credit Unit Asks To Enter Time Sales Court Case

The Nebraska Consumers Credit Association Tuesday requested the State Supreme Court allow it to enter the Elder versus Doerr time sales case as a friend of the court.

Max Denney of Lincoln, executive vice president of the association, filed an application for leave to submit an amicus curiae (friend of the court) brief.

Elder versus Doerr is the celebrated Douglas County District Court case in which the Supreme Court held unconstitutional the 1959 installment sales act.

A request for a rehearing of the case has been filed with the high court.

Charge Amended, Ferrario Pleads Guilty To Assault

Robert L. Ferrario, 35, of St. Paul, Minn., pleaded guilty in Lancaster District Court Tuesday to an amended charge of assault with intent to commit robbery at Baroch's Liquor Store, 2365 O. April 26.

Ferrario was originally charged with robbery and shooting with intent to kill, wound, or maim liquor store clerk William Neylon.

Neylon suffered wounds in the left arm and side in the shooting which occurred when he refused to give Ferrario the money from the cash register.

Judge Herbert Romm deferred sentencing pending an investigation by the adult probation officer.

Girl's Body Found Dismembered In Dublin Apartment

Dublin, Ireland (AP) — The dismembered body of Hazel Mullen, 16, who disappeared Saturday, was found Tuesday in a basement apartment. The body was cut into 12 pieces.

In the same building police found an Indian man unconscious. They said he seemed to be suffering from gas poisoning.

Miss Mullen was an employee of the Bank of Ireland. Described as a quiet girl, she had told associates on leaving the bank Saturday she was going to meet a boy friend.

No Cocktails, Dinner For Montana Senator

Washington (AP) — A cocktail and dinner party being hosted by a group of power corporations and rural electric organizations came in for some critical attention in the Senate Tuesday.

Sen. Lee Metcalf, D-Mont., called the Senate's attention to the party. He said it is being held here Wednesday to acquaint members of Congress and the press with a proposed electric power development program in 10 states.

Sponsor of the party, Mid-Continent Area Power Planners (MAPP), has announced a $2.2 billion program which, according to an invitation, "envisions one of the world's largest power pools, exchanging blocks of power among its members over 5,400 miles of high voltage transmission line."

Metcalf said MAPP comprises 14 private power utilities, 7 rural electric organizations and one public power district operating in Iowa, Minnesota, Nebraska, North Dakota, South Dakota, Montana, Missouri, Wisconsin, Illinois and Wyoming.

Similar Affairs

He said similar affairs are being held throughout the midwest for the benefit of newsmen, politicians and others.

The parties apparently are being held, he said, "to stake a claim on the 10 states, print 70,000 copies of a propaganda booklet, and produce a slide-film series . . ."

Questioning whether one aim of the group is "destruction of public power yardsticks," Metcalf said he is "deeply disturbed that," although the Bureau of Reclamation has the largest transmission system in the north-central area, it apparently has not been considered on the MAPP plans."

None From Nebraska

MAPP "does not include a single cooperative from Montana or South Dakota or Nebraska or Illinois, and includes only one of the scores of locally owned municipal plants," the Montanan said.

Metcalf placed in the Congressional Record a letter from a rural electric cooperative official who said MAPP's plan is "a grab to lay out on paper a future transmission system to be claimed by the large utilities."

Every Day Is Fun Day In Suburbia

COTNER TERRACE
So far this summer, Suburban residents have covered just about every vacation site in almost every state in the U.S. and Canada.
August, indeed, seems to be vacation month in busy Suburbia where residents are now in the midst of returning to their homes and household duties which, we might add, means preparing the younger generation for the return to school in just two short weeks.

Returning to Cotner Terrace recently after a month's holiday on the east coast were Mr. and Mrs. Dallas Gifford. In Rome, N.Y., Mr. and Mrs. Gifford visited with their son and daughter-in-law and family, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Gifford and Peggy, Scott and Ferris, and accompanied them on a nine-day trip to Canada — and a cabin on Lake Rideau.

August Ceremony

At a 7 o'clock evening service solemnized on Wednesday, Aug. 7, Miss Roberta Prall, daughter of Mrs. Louisa Prall, became the bride of Gary Bridges, son of Mrs. Hazel Bridges. The lines of the ceremony were read by the Rev. Robert Holbrook at the Lincoln Heights Methodist Church, in the presence of members of the family and a small group of friends.
Mrs. Rex Call of Salt Lake City was her sister's matron of honor and only attendant. Serving his brother as best man was Lyol Bridges. The bride wore for her Ontario. The trip was highlighted by the family's schedule of fishing, boating, swimming and water skiing.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Gifford, incidentally, are former Lincoln residents and Mr. Gifford is an alumnus of the University of Nebraska. From New York State, Mr. and Mrs. Gifford continued their trip to Westminster, Md., where they were guests of their son and daughter-in-law, M. Sgt. and Mrs. Max Gifford and their children. Their visit included many side trips of interest including Washington, D.C., Annapolis, Mt. Vernon, the Custis-Lee mansion, and Ft. Detrick.
Sgt. Gifford will leave in the near future for South Vietnam where he will be stationed with the Army for the next year. During his absence, his family will be with Mrs. Gifford's parents in Kentucky.

Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Rittenberg and Terri, Janell, Lora,

Kevin and Karin bid farewell on Monday to Mrs. Rittenberg's mother, Mrs. Jana Mobley, who is on her way to visit with her son and daughter-in-law and family, Mr. and Mrs. Kermit Mobley and Kris and Karl.
Mrs. Mobley will be visiting with her family in Raleigh, N.C., for two weeks before returning to her home in Lincoln.
Walker, Minn., was the destination point for Dr. Lavon Sumption and his four children, John, Gloria, Christine and Robin who have returned to the neighborhood as of August 13.

In Walker, Dr. Sumption and the children visited with Mr. and Mrs. E. Sumption and their son John, Dr. Sumption's parents and brother.
Gloria, however, did not return home with her father and brother and sisters, for she will be remaining in Walker assisting her uncle with his 4-H project at the State Fair.
On the return trip to Nebraska, the Sumption foursome stopped in Minneapolis, for a short visit with Mrs.

Sumption's mother, Mrs. Hildur Ketzmark.
California guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Claude Tetherow last week were Mrs. Tetherow's brother-in-law and sister and family, Mr. and Mrs. Rus Miller and Melinda, Bob, Rick and Jill.
The Miller family were in the Lincoln area for several days visiting with other relatives and friends before returning to their California home.
Arriving on Monday of this week was Miss Susan Hoffman who is currently visiting with her uncle, aunt and cousin, Mr. and Mrs. William Williams and Cindy.

Susan, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leon Hoffman, is from Bronxville, N.Y., and will be visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Williams and their daughter for a week.
The Williams household is indeed a busy one for the family recently returned from a week's vacation in Colorado.
While in the resort state, they made special stops in Estes Park and Denver.

The Talk Around Town

Thought things might be a bit quiet on the home front this morning—after yesterday, that is. But such is not the case. We found more guests, current and potential, and we also found a trophy winner—Add to the guests, and the trophy winner a homecoming, and a sidelight on the International beauty contest, and the morning turns out quite well.

On the weekend guest list will be Dr. and Mrs. Ernest B. Howard and their three children of Park Ridge, Ill., who will be arriving on Saturday morning to remain until Monday as the house guests of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Faulkner.

Dr. Howard, the assistant executive vice-president of the American Medical Association, and Mrs. Howard will be complimented on Saturday evening when Mr. and Mrs. Faulkner are host and hostess to a small group of guests at the Lincoln Country Club.

There are three members of the small crowd on the guest list at the moment—They are Anne, Guy and Carl Chambers, daughter and sons of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Chambers of Homewood, Ill., and they are spending the month of August with their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Guy Chambers.

Also on the current guest list are Miram Messmore and his daughter, Mary Jane, of Houston, Tex. Mr. Messmore and his daughter arrived Monday evening to spend a week with Mr. Messmore's parents, Judge and Mrs. Frederick W. Messmore.

That trophy winner we mentioned is Mrs. C. C. Frazer who proved her prowess as a bridge player by taking top honors in a bridge tournament a week ago.

The tournament, one of the entertainment features for the meeting of the American Bar Association held in Chicago a week ago, had 96 participants, so we feel that Lincoln has the best of reasons to bask in reflected glory.

But more about the Frazers—Before Chicago and the American Bar Association, Mr. and Mrs. Frazer had a trip to Anchorage, Alaska, and went directly to Chicago from there.

Now for news of a bride-elect—Miss Dorrie O'Brien, whose marriage to Gene Gage will be solemnized on Aug. 30.
Last evening Mr. and Mrs.

J. H. Voester honored Miss O'Brien and her fiancé when they entertained at a canape party at their home, after which there was dinner at The Knolls.

The soon-to-be bride was presented with a host and hostess gift.

Whether he be six or 60 a man is a mighty good judge of feminine pulchritude.

We have in mind a six-year-old who, for one reason or another, was exceedingly interested in the International Beauty Contest finals last Friday evening. He was permitted to stay up to watch it, but long before the winner was announced our young man lost a bout with the Sandman and went to bed.

The next morning his first question was "Who won?" When he learned that it was Miss Iceland he allowed as how she was "allright" and then he commented:

"You know, some of those girls were real pretty, but most of them looked just like common housewives."

Party Is Prenuptial Courtesy

The guest of honor on Tuesday evening when Miss Annie Laurie Whitmer and Miss Carol Gartun entertained was Miss Judie Gruendeman, whose marriage to Douglas Carr will be an event of Sunday, Sept. 1.

Miss Whitmer and Miss Gartun were hostesses to 25 guests, all former high school classmates of the honoree, at the home of Miss Whitmer. A miscellaneous shower was presented to Miss Gruendeman, who is the daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. L. C. Gruendeman.

Winter Bride-Elect

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Wahe make announcement this morning of the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Meridy Jean, to James Meek, son of Mr. and Mrs. O. E. Meek of Fort Worth, Tex.
The wedding is planned for Saturday, Dec. 7.

The bride-elect will be graduated this month from the Lincoln General Hospital School of Nursing.
Mr. Meek attended Arlington State College at Fort Worth, and is presently stationed at the Lincoln Air Force Base.

We Hear That

A visitor at the home of the Rev. and Mrs. R. H. Powell is Mrs. William H. Swann of Colorado Springs, Colo., Mrs. Powell and Mrs. Swann are alumnae of Rust College, Holly Springs, Miss., and the Rev. Mr. Powell, who is associate minister of Christ Temple, is the former pastor of the People's Church in Colorado Springs, of which Mrs. Swann is a member of the congregation.

Former Coed, Bride

Miss Dorothy Ellermeier, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ellermeier of Bruning, became the bride of Gerald Elliott, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Elliott of Laurel, at a Sunday, Aug. 18, ceremony solemnized at Trinity Lutheran Church in Bruning. The lines of the 3 o'clock service were read by the Rev. John Hieronymus, and Mrs. Wayne Langhorst, organist, played the wedding music. The vocalist was Miss Beverly Brettman of Deshler.

Frocked in embroidered silk organza over taffeta in the aqua tone were Miss Ruth Ellermeier as her sister's maid of honor, and the bridesmaids, Miss Marilyn Ellermeier and Miss Janice Ellermeier, also sisters of the bride. They carried white and aqua-tinted carnations.

Ray Grandon of Lincoln served Mr. Elliott as best man, and seating the guests were Gene Elliott, the bridegroom's brother, and Dennis Van Fossen, Laurel; Fred Hiatt, Norfolk; and Thomas Carlson, Lincoln.

The bride designed her wedding gown of white silk organza and lace over taffeta. The long-sleeved bodice of lace was accented by a sabbina neckline, traced with sequins, and the lace was repeated on the full skirt of organza completed at the back by a draped bustle bow. A pearl tiara held her illusion veil, and she carried three white orchids showered with stephanotis.

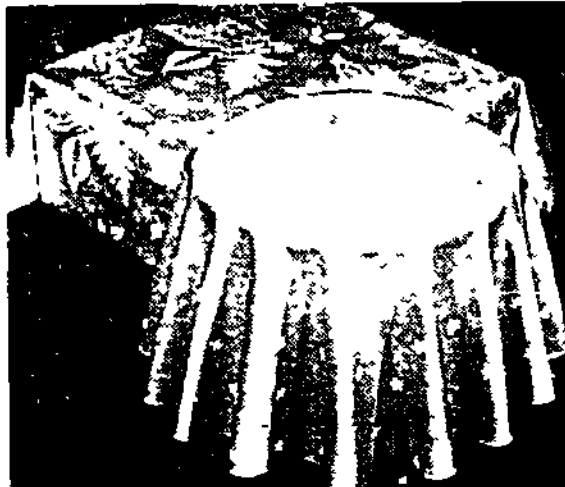

Mr. and Mrs. Elliott will make their home in Crete, where the bride, a graduate of the University of Nebraska, is a member of the Crete Schools faculty. Mr. Elliott is a student at the University of Nebraska and a member of Pioneer House.

Dear Abby

Even If You Are Sure—Think Twice

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am a 12-year-old boy and every day of my summer vacation I stay home alone and watch television. My mother works all day long, Monday through Friday, and she doesn't want me leaving the house. I have nobody to talk to except the dog, and if somebody heard the way I carry on a conversation with him they would think I was nuts. I am not supposed to let anybody in the house. Can you tell me how I can keep from getting bored?

A BOY UNNAMED
DEAR UNNAMED: Boredom is only one of your problems. A boy your age needs fresh air, exercise and the companionship of other young people. Ask your mother if there isn't a day camp where she can send you. A boy your age shouldn't be cooped up in the house all summer.

DEAR ABBY: My sister and I have a friend who lives in the same apartment building as we do. She went on a vacation and left the keys to her apartment with her gentleman friend so he could water her plants and look after her goldfish. She hadn't been gone two days when this no-good gentleman friend brought another woman into her apartment. All the neighbors know about it and we are afraid one of them will tell her when she gets back. Should we tell her first, or should we let this man make a fool of her?

FRIENDS
DEAR FRIENDS: WHO was the "other woman?" WHY did the "gentleman" take her there? Unless you are sure of the facts, don't be the bearer of such news. And if you ARE sure, even then think twice.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I were invited to a wedding. He scarcely knows the people and I have never met them. My husband is a professor, and the bride was a former student. My husband will be unable to attend as the date conflicts with a previous commitment. Would it

Why Grow Old?

Figure Molding

Josephine Lowman

It seems impossible that summer will soon be replaced by nippy fall! When we think of fall we think of frost, zippy winds, a color-splashed countryside, cider, the fragrance of burning leaves and winter clothes.

Then, inescapably, come thoughts of figure molding. The designers plan the clothes but WHY GROW OLD? Is here to get you into them!

I have often reminded you that a slim waist makes up for a lot of figure faults. If a woman has this graceful attribute, she can carry quite a bit of weight in her hips and still have a girlish figure.

Many women have a small waist measurement but are troubled with fat over the diaphragm. If you are the correct weight but are harassed by its distribution, special exercises are your answer.

Fat over the diaphragm (over and between the ribs) creates a bulge above the waistline. If you have this problem why not exercise it away before you consider your clothes for winter? The following exercise hits the spot I mention.

Kneel on both knees. Bend over and place your hands on the floor. Drop your head be proper for me to go with my older, bachelor brother? Must we send a gift whether we attend the wedding or not?

MUST KNOW
DEAR MUST: You were apparently invited because of your HUSBAND'S former association with the bride. In view of this fact, and since you know none of the people involved, it might be wise to decline the invitation. A gift is ALWAYS optional.

DEAR ABBY: I have a very good friend who is crazy about BINGO. She always asks me to go to Bingo games with her, and I go, but I don't enjoy it. You see, she is a highly emotional woman, and she beats on me, pounds on me, yells and plays four cards at once. She causes such a big racket in the place and makes us both conspicuous. How can I get out of going to Bingo with her? I enjoy her company everywhere else. I wouldn't hurt her feelings for the world.

A. A.
DEAR A. A.: You don't have to tell your friend WHY you don't want to go to Bingo games with her any more. Just tell her you don't want to go.

CONFIDENTIAL TO IRATE ACCOUNTANT IN RIVERSIDE: Doesn't EVERYBODY know that in the Rules of Professional Conduct for The American Institute of Certified Public Accountants, it clearly states: "A member shall not violate the confidential relationship between himself and his client"? I didn't think it was necessary to defend a C.P.A. who was gracious enough to do a relative's tax work gratis.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "BLUE BLOODS": Better "nouveau riche" than never rich.

Tell your troubles to Abby. For a personal, unpublished reply, please send a stamped, self-addressed envelope

Opening lead — king of spades.

There is one important principle that runs through the play of many hands. It is the principle that, regardless of how dark the outlook, you must go all out to make the contract if you are the declarer, or all out to beat the contract if you are a defender.

Many contracts stand or fall depending upon the distribution of the adverse cards. There may be no chance for declarer to make a contract if the cards are distributed one way; and a certainty — or at least a possibility — of making the contract if the cards are distributed another way. In such cases the declarer must play on the basis that the unseen cards are favorably distributed, for otherwise he would be giving up.

The same principle applies to the defenders. Each of them must also assume a holding by declarer that permits the contract to be defeated. In many cases the assumption will prove false, but, even so, there is little to be lost by adopting the sanguine view.

Here is a simple illustration. West is defending against four hearts and leads the king of spades. The problem is what to play at trick two. His proper play is a low club, in which case the contract is defeated when East takes the ace, returns a club, and then gets a club ruff to set four hearts a trick.

But many players would not dare lead a club away from the king at trick two. The specter of South having the ace and thus getting a free club finesse would freeze them in their tracks and give declarer the contract when they made some other, "safer" play.

This is the wrong philosophy. It is true that these players might lose a trick by leading a club, but they would never lose the contract because of the play. If South has the ace of clubs, the contract is obviously indefensible, so West must presume that East has that vital card and act accordingly.

Northern Half Of State Needs Rain

General weekend rains and local showers in the southern half of the state brought relief to many dry areas, but in the northern half of Nebraska dry conditions still prevail, government crop observers reported Tuesday.

Precipitation is needed in the northern areas to improve crop conditions.

Nearly all the corn is tasseled and sorghum headed, except for fields planted late. Some of the early corn has ears that are approaching or are in the denting stage, the report said. Much of the sorghum is turning color and moving rapidly toward maturity.

According to the crop men, more than the usual amount of corn and sorghum is being utilized for silage since drought conditions reduced grain prospects.

Soybeans are making good progress where there has been rain. Sugar beets, dry beans and potatoes in the Panhandle have made good growth and harvest of dry beans is expected to begin soon.

Some early potatoes have been harvested and sugar beets are promising a good tonnage, the report said.

Range and pasture feed continues to be short in many areas and supplemental feeding of livestock has been necessary to maintain the conditions of the animals.

Harvest of the 3rd cutting of alfalfa is past the halfway mark, while wild hay harvest is nearing completion.

Movement of stocker and feeder cattle is picking up as ranchers complete the hay harvest and give more attention to cattle marketings.

Two year olds are moving first, with calf contracting for later delivery beginning at a slow pace. Most of the animals are carrying good flesh as a result of high quality cured range feed, the report said.

Shelter Test Is Completed For 35 Cows

Omaha (AP)—Thirty-five Guernsey cows and two University of Nebraska agriculture students emerged from a 30-by-40 foot nuclear fallout shelter near Elkhorn Tuesday after a two-week stay.

The effects of the stay on the cows, part of the herd of J. Gordon Roberts, will not be known until a series of tests have been completed, but initial observations were favorable.

Veterinarian Jack Cady said few of the animals lost weight but during their first few hours in the shelter one cow required tranquilizer pills and several had to be given drugs to reduce excitement-induced fevers.

Dennis De Frain and Arthur Anderson Jr., who played nursemaid to the cows during the experiment, said boredom and monotonous food were their main problems.

Men and animals were let out for brief periods each day after the 3rd day. Hal Reed, deputy civil defense director for Douglas County, said this part of the experiment paralleled conditions that would prevail after a nuclear attack as radiation diminishes after 72 hours.

Roberts, Omaha dairyman, said the experiment was made to check certain assumptions about the national fallout shelter program. He said it was the first time in the Free World that cattle had been submitted to conditions of a nuclear attack.

The office of Civil Defense and the United States Department of Agriculture observed the experiment.

Three Bottle Club Requests Deferred

No one appeared in opposition to 3 applications for bottle club licenses at a public hearing before Lancaster County Commissioners Tuesday.

The board deferred action on the applications for Hillcrest Country Club, East Hills Club, and Town and Country Club.

Attorney Ed Carter Jr., representing both East Hills and Town and Country, appealed to the board to grant the licenses under the provisions of LB21, commonly referred to as the "bottle club" bill passed by the Legislature.

Carter pointed out that

Continue Hunt For Missing Jet Co-Pilot

Irwin, Iowa (AP) — A painstaking search through the hills and ravines around this farm community was conducted Tuesday for the co-pilot of one of two Air Force jet bombers that collided in the air and crashed.

Two of the 6 Air Force officers in the two B47 bombers were killed Three parachuted safely. Missing was Capt. Leonard A. Theis, 29, of San Fernando, Calif.

The Air Force Tuesday sent in 90 airmen and two helicopters to conduct the search. Also in the search crew were Iowa highway patrolmen and a patrol plane, a mounted troupe from Harlan, the Irwin High School football squad, fire departments from nearby towns, and volunteers organized search parties by Shelby County Sheriff Orrell Gearhart.

About 300 persons were participating in the hunt.

The bombers were on a training mission for the Strategic Air Command from Schilling Air Force Base at Salina, Kan., when the collision occurred Monday.

Martin Hits Slow Pace Of Water Resource Council

Washington (AP) — The slow pace of the President's Water Resources Council is holding up House Interior Committee action on reclamation projects, Rep. Dave Martin, R-Neb., said Tuesday.

The committee requested the council to determine what percentage of the cost of a reclamation project should be allocated to recreation, fish and wildlife.

Martin said that on Aug. 8 he wrote the council members for their views but to date only Stewart L. Udall has replied. Other council members are the secretaries of agriculture, army and welfare.

This inactivity by the President's Water Resources Council is adversely affecting the development of many sound reclamation projects in the country, including the mid-state project in Nebraska," Martin said in a statement.

Martin said the committee will approve the mid-state project as soon as the council submits its report.

Robinson Takes 'Turn For Worse'

Falls City (UPI) — The condition of Dave Robinson, 20, who was injured in a steer-riding accident here Aug. 6, was reported to have taken a turn for the worse in St. Joseph Hospital, Omaha.

Dave, the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Robinson, suffered a critical brain injury and was in a coma.

According to the family, his left side has become paralyzed and doctors were concerned over his chances for recovery.

East Hills Club operators Boyd and Marjorie Waddle "plan to continue the operation as a family group service."

Although public dances have been held there in the past, "this is not the case at the present time and will not be in the future if the license is granted," he said.

The club has about 240 family memberships, Carter said. Carter asked the board to grant the Town and Country Club, which now has approximately 200 members, a license for the entire premises "for possible expansion."

Plans to Expand
He said that club owners C. Marvin and Dorothy Roberts have tentative plans to expand the club area and to add some facilities such as an area for horse showmanship competition.

No one appeared in support of or in opposition to the application for a non-profit license for Hillcrest.

The board also set Sept. 3 for public hearing on the bottle club license applications for Colonial Inn, Inc. at 56th and Cornhusker, and K & D Engineering Inc., at 2310 So. 7th.

The Commissioners took no action on extended hours for on and off-sale beer purchasing throughout the county.

It was indicated earlier by board members that the county hours would probably be uniform with those of the city—from 6 a.m. to 1 a.m.

Republican fund raising dinners will be held Friday, Aug. 30, in West Point and Saturday in Osceola, with Senator Roman L. Hruska and Congressman Ralph F. Beermann as speakers, according to a report from the Republican State Central Committee.

The Cuming County and state GOP party will share the proceeds from the Aug. 30 gathering in West Point, scheduled for 7 p.m. in the city auditorium.

Funds from the Aug. 31 dinner in Osceola, at 7 p.m. in the high school auditorium, will go to the GOP in Polk, Seward and Butler Counties as well as to the state party, the report said.

Marijuana Case Should Go To City Officials—O'Leary

Omaha (AP) — Chief deputy County Attorney Art O'Leary said Tuesday there will be no felony charges against the two young men arrested in connection with a vice squad raid Sunday which uncovered a cache of marijuana.

He said the case should be referred to the city prosecutor for action under city ordinances. Investigation showed, O'Leary said, the men involved were experimenting with the drug. There were no sales, he added.

The two men, booked and released on $200 bonds, were William Yule Duncan, 23, and Jon William Calhoun, 24.

Police said they admitted picking marijuana weed from a lot in west Omaha.

Ask Law Be Enforced

Tokyo (AP) — City officials have asked the government to enforce a law limiting the amount of factory refuse that can be dumped into Tokyo's streams. They fear wastes will pollute the air for the 1964 Tokyo Olympics.

You'll Never Get Rich... 'Bush League' Prep Coach

... BUT FOOTBALL FIELD, 5,000 MEN MARK TEXAN'S PASSING

EDITOR'S NOTE: Small town high school coaches work hard for relatively small paychecks and little glory, but they take pride in helping develop young men. Such a man was L. C. Wood, who died recently after 30 years of coaching in Texas high schools. His son, Associated Press writer Bob Wood of Phoenix, writes a tribute to Coach Wood and the thousands of others who coach in the bush leagues.

By Bob Wood
Phoenix, Ariz. (AP)—He spent most of his life in the bush leagues of football.
He never heard 50,000 fans raise a tidal wave of voices as his team pushed across a touchdown. Five-thousand in a plank-seat stadium was more like it.
He had a couple of assistant coaches down through the years. If he could find enough cash in the school athletic account for a scouting trip, that was like filling an inside straight.
He taped a thousand ankles and he bandaged a hundred cuts because there wasn't a trainer. He even washed the dirty uniforms once in awhile.
Fierce Pride
That's the way he wanted it. He had a fierce pride in being one of those underpaid, overworked and oft-harrassed high school football coaches.
His name was L. C. (Carroll) Wood.
You won't recognize the name unless you are one of those poker-hot Texas football fans. The places he coached during his 30 years of service—McGregor, Cameron and Mexia—won't ring a bell unless you live within that circle called Central Texas.

During those 3 decades he won 221 games, lost 70 and tied 15. He won some 15 district championships and a handful of other titles.
He had a pickie barrel chest and a set of anvil arms, seemingly misplaced between a bold head and a pair of spindly legs that bore countless scars, hacked across the shins and calves by football cleats and two years of action in World War I.

Old Brown Hat
He wore a battered old brown hat to all the games. He threw it, stomped it, sat on it, chewed it, waved it and finally lost it when it sailed into a barbed wire fence.
He scrimmaged with his teams until he was 45. At 50, he could punt consistently 60 yards.

Coach Wood took his first job in McGregor when there wasn't even a field on which to play. He hacked one out of a hill top in his spare time, proving he should have been a coach, not a surveyor. The field slanted sharply from south to north.

"Receive the devil," he'd tell his team captain, "If you win the toss, son, take the down slant and we've got 'em on the run."
He started one season with 13 men. Two linemen were injured in the first game. He finished with 11, winning 11 straight and losing the finale.

He watched football advance from the flimsy leather helmets to the plastic headgear and from the baggy, unnumbered uniforms to the sleek-light synthetics.
Some things didn't change.
He always insisted his boys neither smoke nor drink during the season. One asked, "How come you're so strict and yet you smoke cigars, coach?"

"You just landed a punch son," he said. He tossed the cigar into the gutter and never again touched tobacco or alcohol.
He lost a title game because his star back had violated a curfew and was benched. He suffered one of his most disastrous seasons when before the first kickoff he expelled 5 lettermen for smoking.

"Winning's not everything," he often said. "I'll lose 'em all if I have 11 gentlemen out there. Hard-nosed gentlemen, I might add."

He'd tell his team, "Look sharp out there. Shine those football shoes. Look like a champion even if you can't beat my sick Aunt Hannah and her 10 bridge club members."

He drove his players hard, insisting that football was a game of blocking, tackling and guts.
"You're going to take orders most of your lives," he said. "When you get through playing under me, any boss in the world will seem like an angel. Then you'll have no trouble adjusting."

He tasted the thrills and disappointments of football. He won games 7-6 and lost them 19-18. He was beaten 107-0 and won 88-0.

He finished out of the money with a line that averaged 210 pounds and he won a title with a line that averaged 150, including a 138-pound center.

He was given presents and salary raises when he won.
He received cruel telephone calls, endless advice from the grandstand experts and threats of unemployment in the lean seasons.

Education Essential
He always insisted his athletes go to college for an education, not just a football free-ride. He had many who became starters and stars in the college ranks. But his greatest days were when one of his players graduated near the top of the class.

"You'll never get rich in this business," he'd say, "And they don't run around building statues for high school coaches or thick-headed athletes."

Coach Wood was buried the other day. He was right as usual.
The inheritance tax men would have been insulted if asked to check his wealth.

Nobody dashed out to erect a monument in the city park.
But he left behind a small, rock-fenced stadium called Wood Field.

And he left 5,000 men who still boastfully call themselves Coach Wood's boys.

Big 8 Gridders Facing Rugged Non-Loop Slate

By Associated Press
The Big 8 faces probably the toughest non-conference schedule in its history this fall. On the card are Southern California's defending national champs, plus such giants as Texas, Northwestern, Arkansas, Clemson and Syracuse.
Big 8 teams won two of 3 bowl games and posted a 15-11-1 record last season against outside teams. They may not break even in 21 games this season. They must play two games against Texas, Southern Cal and Arkansas.

break into the top 10, in the Associated Press poll.
Toughest Slate
Coach Bud Wilkinson's Oklahoma Sooners, No. 8 in the poll last season and favored to repeat as Big 8 champs, has the toughest outside schedule. The big Red opens with Clemson Sept. 21 at Norman, then faces Southern Cal Sept. 28 at Los Angeles and Texas Oct. 12 at Dallas.
Missouri opens with Northwestern at Columbia Sept. 21, then plays Arkansas a week later at Little Rock. Colorado opens with Southern Cal, then Oregon State's Liberty Bowl champs. Oklahoma State meets Arkansas, Texas and Tulsa. Nebraska meets Minnesota, 10th nationally a year ago.
Kansas opens at Texas

Christian a perennial Southwestern Conference contender. The Jayhawks then face Syracuse Sept. 28 at Lawrence before traveling to Wyoming.

Big 8 teams play 7 games against 1962 conference champions and 6 more with conference runners-up. What's more, all are favored to do at least as well this fall. In fact, only two teams on the card, California and Texas Tech, finished below 3rd in their conferences.

7 Bowlers
The league plays 7 games with bowl teams, 7 with teams in the top 10 last fall, plus two more with clubs in the top 18. The 24 opponents won a combined 62 per cent last fall and only 5 had losing seasons.

Three of the 5 losers will meet Kansas State, which has the weakest outside schedule. But Brigham Young, Texas Tech and San Jose State will be tough for the Wildcats. On the Iowa State card are California, Virginia Military's defending Southern Conference champs and favored to repeat, and Drake. The Cyclones may not win more than one.
Nebraska, which also meets South Dakota State College and Air Force Academy, has the best chance for a sweep because Minnesota is rated well below its '62 level.

Dodgers Stretch Lead To 6½ With 7-5 Win

By Associated Press
The Los Angeles Dodgers took advantage of a throwing error by Bill White, pushed across 5 runs in the 4th inning and stretched their National League lead to 6½ games by whipping second-place St. Louis, 7-5, Tuesday night.

The Dodgers, winning their 6th straight over-all and 5th in a row against the Cardinals, got the job done in the 4th after White's throwing error let in two runs and tied the score, 4-4. A single by Jim Gilliam put the Dodgers ahead, 5-4, and Ron Fairly lashed a two-run single to wrap it up.

Milwaukee dropped defending champion San Francisco 7½ back of the Dodgers, beating the Giants 6-1 as Lee Maye's 3-run homer triggered a 5-run 7th inning that snapped a tie.
The top pitching performance of the night was turned in at Kansas City, where the A's swept a doubleheader from Washington, 9-0, behind Moe Drabowsky's one-hitter and 7-5 on Jerry Lumpe's two-run homer in the 14th inning.

The only hit off Drabowsky was a bunt single by Don Blasingame in the 4th inning.
In other American League games, Cleveland throttled the first-place New York Yankees, 2-1, behind Dick Donovan's effective pitching. Hank Aguirre spun a two-hitter in Detroit's 6-0 triumph over Minnesota and the Chicago White Sox belted Boston, 10-2.

The Los Angeles Angels-Baltimore game was rained out.
Cincinnati's Joe Nuxhall posted his 100th NL victory, combining with reliever Al Worthington for a 4-hit 1-0 shutout of Houston.

Deserves Additional Trial
The test run with a two-colored penalty flag system that was used in Saturday's Nebraska Shrine Bowl was not a booming success nor was it a failure. And it certainly deserves further testing.

Some of the fans liked it while others don't really care. But the significant thing about the test is that the officials had no complaints.

If anyone was going to oppose its use, it should have been the game officials because it puts an added burden on them. The system was proposed by John Elliott of Beatrice and red and white flags are used with one color for each team.

Charles Knight of Lincoln, who officiated in the test game, feels the system will work and could be adopted for any game in which 4 or more officials are used. "It would be an excellent idea for college games," he notes.

But Knight is not sold on the idea of using it for high school games, especially in smaller high schools where often the officiating crew consists of only 3 men.

"I wouldn't want to try it in a 3-man crew if I were the umpire," he says. "This would mean that I might have to keep the time on the field, carry two flags in my pocket, chase an incomplete pass down the field and throw one of the flags all on the same play."

Knight also feels it could be tough on the head linesman if the chain crew were inexperienced. "It worked all right Saturday because we had Bun Galloway and the experienced University of Nebraska chain crew," he explains. "But in high school games, the line crew is not this experienced and it keeps the head linesman busy watching them."

Better For Spectators
Wayne Kaeding of Beatrice, another official in Saturday's game feels it makes a better game for the spectator and isn't too upset over the fact that it makes the officials think about one more task.

"With this system the fan doesn't have to wait until a play is called back to find out which team the penalty is on," Kaeding notes. "This is especially helpful to the spectator on long runs."

Both Kaeding and Knight explain that some of the problems connected with the new system can be lessened with practice. The main problem now is keeping track of which flag to throw and both Kaeding and Knight were guilty of throwing the wrong flag once Saturday.

But both explain this mistake comes from the habits acquired under the one-flag system. "As soon as officials acquire the new habits and become accustomed to the two-flag system, this would become no problem," they explain.

Needs Time For Test
Just as with any new idea, this one will take a while for officials and spectators to become accustomed to it. But the idea has a few advantages and as far as we can see, no disadvantages. Right away this makes the score stand in favor of its use.

We definitely believe it deserves a further trial and that it will be an aid to the spectator which is really the reason for the game. And if officials have no complaints, then there is little excuse for not using it.

IMCA Machines Back For Fair

Four afternoons of auto racing, plus two evening performances by the Aut Swenson Thrillcade, are scheduled for the 1963 Nebraska State Fair, Aug. 31-Sept. 5.

Fair board secretary Ed Schultz reports big car (speedway type) auto races are set for the afternoons of Sept. 1, 2 and 5, while stock car races, featuring a 50-lap main event, will be run the afternoon of Sept. 4.

Argument With Cops Lands Young In Grim Penalty Box

Detroit (AP)—Howie Young, who spent more time than anyone else in National Hockey League penalty boxes last season, is in danger of spending considerably more time in a different kind of penalty box.

This one has bars. It is Wayne (Detroit) County Jail. And Young could be sent there for 90 days or fined $100 for an off-the-ice, pre-dawn roughhouse he engaged in with three Detroit policemen Monday.

Young, traded by the Detroit Red Wings to the Chicago Black Hawks last spring, pleaded guilty to a drunk and disorderly charge before Recorder's Judge John P. Scallen. The judge, who could send him to jail for up to 90 days or fine him up to $100, set sentencing for Sept. 4.

The judge indicated that the delay was to give his probation department an opportunity to question Young and also assess damages at the westside Detroit restaurant where the slam-banging youth took on the 3 policemen.

Some dishes were broken and tables upset. But no one got hurt much. A member of the police-department hockey team, patrolman Joseph Curto told reporters: "I've got worse bruises in games."

Curto said he was eating in the restaurant about 4 a.m. when Young and 3 male companions came in.

"They were pretty boisterous," Curto said, "but I didn't pay any attention until the one I learned later was Howie Young made same remarks critical of policemen."
"Then he came over and snatched a sausage off my plate and ate it. I let him get away with that, but when he grabbed my hat and began to juggle it, I reached the end."

"I told him to put the hat down and sober up. But he didn't, so I went out to my car and told my partner who was waiting for me. We called the station and got a sergeant."

After the sergeant arrived, the policemen retrieved Curto's hat, but Young objected when they also tried to take him along.

Losing out, as he often did to National Hockey League referees, Young spent the rest of the night in the police station penalty box.

Jury Decides For Ex-Coach

... IN SUIT AGAINST POST

Atlanta (UPI)—Former Georgia coach Wallace Butts, whose football triumphs became almost a legend, won the biggest victory of his life Tuesday—a $3,060,000 libel judgment against the Saturday Evening Post which said he gave away team secrets to a rival university.

"I feel like a champ," Butts told reporters and photographers less than an hour after a 12-man Federal Court jury ruled in his favor after 7 hours and 18 minutes of deliberation.

Butts wept openly when the verdict was announced and then, with his eyes still red from the tears, he walked outside of the courthouse where several hundred loyal supporters lined the sidewalks and gave him a rousing cheer.

Lifts 'Cloud'
Southeastern Conference Commissioner Borne Moore said the verdict, which followed 9 days of testimony and two more of closing arguments, should help lift "the dark cloud" hanging over intercollegiate football and the SEC.

"It clearly indicates that there was extremely reckless journalism in the accusations and reporting of a so-called fix of the 1962 Alabama-Georgia game," Moore said in a statement in Birmingham, Ala.

The jury of businessmen, in effect, upheld Butts' steadfast denial that he had conspired with Alabama's Paul (Bear) Bryant to rig last September's Georgia-Alabama game.

The Post, in its March 23 issue, said Butts telephoned secret Georgia plays to his longtime adversary 9 days prior to the game which Alabama, a 17-point favorite, won 35-0.

Bryant, one of more than 40 witnesses who appeared in the trial, also denied the allegation and has a $10 million libel suit pending against the Post in Birmingham, Ala.

Butts sought the same amount—$5 million in general damages and $5 million in punitive damages. This, in effect, was a fine based on the jury's belief that there was malicious intent in the Post article.

The jury, which received the case Monday and couldn't reach a verdict Monday night, gave Butts $60,000 in general damages — the amount they felt he had lost in his earning capacity — and $3 million in punitive damages. This, in effect, was a fine based on the jury's belief that there was malicious intent in the Post article.

Von Erich won the 3rd and deciding fall as both wrestlers finished flat on their backs. The two grapplers collided coming off the ropes, knocking both of them out. But Von Erich managed to recover enough to cover Pesek as referee Ernie Dusek tolled the 3-count.

Von Erich took the first fall in 11:52, but Pesek came back quickly to even it up with his abdominal stretch after 3:48.

The match was delayed in starting with Von Erich refusing to accept Dusek as the referee. But the German villain finally consented.

The tag team of Cowboy Bradley and Sam Thomas came back after losing the first fall to win the midjet tag team battle over Tiny Roe and Chico Espinoza.

Don Fuller was awarded a win over Bob Geigel when the latter was disqualified. Bulldog Piechaw won the opening match over Ricky Ramirez.

The next rattle card at Pershing is set for Sept. 10.

WBA Stiffens Safety Regulations For Bouts

Miami Beach, Fla. (AP) — In its most significant convention in years, the World Boxing Association has decided to get tough with wayward member states and has rewritten its safety code to cut down death and injury in the ring.

In a vigorous session Tuesday, the admittedly weak organization showed new spirit by throwing Michigan out of the WBA for staging the unsanctioned lightweight title fight between Kenny Lane and Paul Armstead.

These changes were made:

1. Ringside physicians were given the power to stop fights whenever they feel that a boxer has taken an unduly severe battering or is in danger of serious injury.

2. The mandatory 8-count after a knockdown, waived in many championship fights in the past, was made mandatory at all times.

3. Six-month suspensions were set up for fighters knocked out twice in a row, or twice in 3 months. After a single knockout a fighter will be suspended for 60 days, rather than 30 days.

4. The 3-knockdown rule was applied to all matches, including championship bouts. When a boxer is flattened 3 times in a round, the bout will be halted and his opponent awarded a decision.

5. A fighter no longer may be saved by the bell. If the bell rings while a referee is counting over a fighter, he will continue the count, and will call a knockout in that round if he reaches 10.

6. The rule providing for 3 ring ropes was changed to call for 4 ropes 18, 32, 46 and 54 inches from the ring floor.

7. Rounds for preliminary bouts were reduced from 3 to two minutes.

Clay, Liston Plans Axed

Louisville, Ky. (AP) — C. C. Clay's manager said Tuesday negotiations for a heavy-weight title bout between Clay and champion Sonny Liston "have completely broken down."

Manager Bill Faversham added, "that includes plans for 1964 as well as this year."

The group backing the Louisville contender has decided to have Clay fight sometime this year, Faversham said, probably in late October or early November.

He said offers have been received for matches against heavy-weights Ernie Terrell, Bryan London and Tom McNeeley. Terrell is ranked 3rd by Ring Magazine and 5th by the World Boxing Association in the line of heavy-weight boxers.

Faversham reported the Clay group found Liston's terms for a fight next year unacceptable.

RACIAL DISPUTE CANCELS TILT

New York (AP) — A controversy over segregated seating has caused cancellation of the American Football League exhibition game between the Oakland Raiders and New York Jets scheduled at Mobile, Ala., Friday night.

Milt Woodard, assistant AFL commissioner, announced the move Tuesday at the league office here following a protest lodged by 4 Negro members of the Oakland team about segregated seating at Ladd Memorial Stadium, the game site.

The 4 Raiders, Art Powell, Fred Williamson, Clemon Daniels and Bo Roberson, had said they would refuse to play in the game at Mobile unless the stadium was completely desegregated.

"Since the groups involved felt fully integrated seating was impossible and Negroes on the competing teams were reluctant or had refused to play in a semi-integrated stadium, the league office requested the cancellation."

Small Boats Attack Cuban Plant

Havana (AP) — Gunners firing from two small boats damaged tanks and pipelines of a western Cuban metal plant in the 3rd armed raid on Cuban installations within 4 days, Prime Minister Fidel Castro's government said Tuesday.

A communique accused the United States of direct responsibility for the attack. It declared the raid proved once more that a new plan of aggression against Cuba is under way and said "Cuba is taking up measures to assure the defense of our country."

The official account, published by Havana newspapers and broadcast by Radio Havana, gave these details:

The target was a metal plant in Pinar Del Rio Province on the estuary of the Santa Lucia River, 100 miles southwest of Havana.

Moved in — The raiders, whom the government called pirates, moved in from an unidentified mother ship anchored off the coast. They crept up the estuary along a channel they had previously marked with buoys.

They fired bazooka shells and 30 caliber machine gun bullets at the militia-guarded plant. The bazooka shells missed, but machine gun bullets punctured sulphuric acid and oil storage tanks and some of the establishment's pipelines.

Militiamen immediately repelled the aggression, the communique said, but the raiders got away under cover of heavy machine gun fire from the mother ship.

There was no report of casualties. The militiamen were said to have recovered the channel buoys, one boat, an outboard motor, an empty gasoline can, two machine guns, a bazooka, ammunition and 7 blasting caps.

The two previous raids of the weekend were by airmen.

A small plane bombed and strafed a sugar mill at the Camaguey Province town of Moron. Another plane shot up oil installations at the town of Casilda, in Las Villas Province. Cuban authorities said an oil dump, a tank car and a house were damaged.

CIA Charged

The Cuban communique charged that the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency draws the plans, organizes the bases and supplies the technical resources "for this kind of warfare against Cuba."

"New and very grave problems can be originated by the criminally stupid and shameless policy that the United States is pursuing in relation to the Cuban problem," it declared.

Minister Is Deaf Mute's Interpreter

Baltimore (AP) — A minister who used sign language last month to talk a deaf-mute into surrendering to police served as his interpreter in magistrate's court Monday at his assault trial.

Through the Rev. Louis W. Foxwell, the 33-year-old defendant told why he brandished a shotgun and a rifle at officers trying to arrest him July 28.

He was frightened, said John J. Herron, and panicked when he was unable to express himself to the police. They had gone to his home in suburban Essex, Md., after his wife and 4 children had fled to a neighbor's home.

After holding police at bay for 3 hours, Herron was persuaded by the Rev. Mr. Foxwell, pastor of the Christ Methodist Church for the deaf, to surrender. No shots were fired during the episode.

Police told Magistrate Joseph Schirano that Herron had been drinking before terrorizing members of his family.

Herron, pleaded guilty to a charge of deadly assault, was fined $25.

Executions Denounced

Brussels, Belgium (AP) — Secretary-General Omar Becu of the International Confederation of Free Trade Unions has cabled to Gen. Francisco Franco a denunciation of the execution of two convicted bombers in Madrid. Becu said he expressed "the strong protest and indignation of trade union members of the free world."

Violence Erupts On Israeli-Syrian Line

Jerusalem, Israeli Sector (AP) — Violence erupted in the air and on the ground Tuesday along the Israeli-Syrian armistice line north of the Sea of Galilee. Syria and Israel promptly accused each other of aggression, and both sides claimed aerial victories.

Israel notified U.N. Secretary-General U Thant in New York that it will ask for an urgent meeting of the U.N. Security Council on the conflict. A U.N. official said the Israeli complaint probably would be heard Friday or early next week in the council.

The Syrian government termed the air and ground clashes "serious Israeli aggression" and ordered its U.N. delegate to bring the situation to the immediate attention of U Thant.

Essential — "Israel believes that U. N. action is essential if serious consequences are to be averted," Dr. Haim Yehiel, the Israeli foreign ministry's director general, told a news conference.

The request for U.N. action came after an Israeli army spokesman claimed Soviet-built Syrian jets tried to penetrate Israeli air space and were intercepted by French-made Israeli Mirage jet fighters.

The spokesman said all of the Syrian jets were driven back except one. It was seen losing altitude and then falling apart. A Syrian spokesman claimed one Israeli fighter was shot down in the air battle.

Ground Fire — The dogfight was followed during the day by ground fire along the border and preceded Monday night by what Yehiel described as the ambush killing of two 19-year-old Israeli settlers by Syrian soldiers north of the Sea of Galilee in Israel.

Countercharges came from the Syrians.

In Damascus, the Syrian army claimed it drove back 15 Israeli armored cars in a two-hour gun battle on the border. They claimed there were no Syrian casualties, but that it was possible many casualties were inflicted on the Israelis.

Pub-Keeper Loses All The Way Around

London (AP) — Taking careful aim, John Moffitt flicked a dart at the dartboard in his favorite pub.

He missed and hit an electric light bulb. The bulb exploded with a loud "plop."

The exploding bulb short-circuited the lights.

In the darkness, pub-keeper Bruce Newton went to the fuse box downstairs.

Groping for it, he lost his footing and plunged down the stairs.

This frightened the pub watch dog, Bilko, and Bilko bit him.

The pubman let out a yell and caused a bartender to accidentally smash a glass and cut his hand.

Then Moffitt got the lights back on, came upstairs and found someone walked out with the dartboard.

'Too Pretty' Girl Agrees To Do News

London (AP) — Sally Alford gallantly stepped in Tuesday as a pinch-hitting news announcer for a television company which bounced her off the same job 6 months ago because she was too pretty.

The company, an arm of the commercially sponsored Independent Television Network, had to appeal to Sally — a pert, 22-year-old brunette — to forgive and forget. The station's chief newscaster was ill and two others were on vacation.

When the firm imposed the ban on girl news reader it explained that not only did their beauty distract male viewers, but they were prone to show signs of emotional distress when the tidings were tragic.

Kennedy's Sisters Leave Budapest

Budapest, Hungary (AP) — Mrs. Peter Lawford and Mrs. Stephen Smith, two of President Kennedy's sisters, left Budapest for Bucharest, Romania, by car Tuesday following a two-day tourist visit to the Hungarian capital, the U.S. Legation here announced.

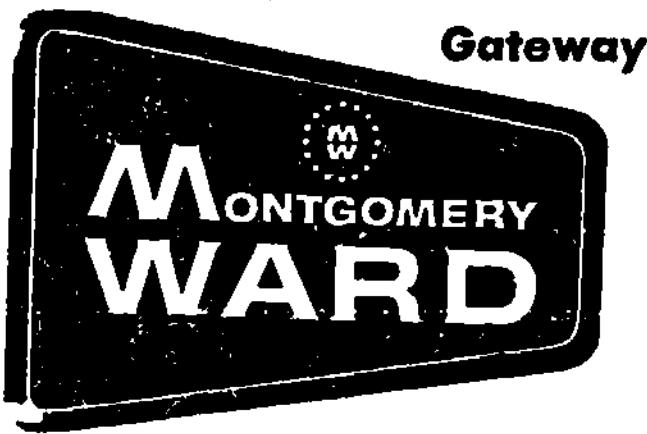

The sisters saw a retarded children's home, the stately Parliament building and several museums.

FILTERED THROUGH A "MOUNTAIN" OF CHARCOAL

Today, Smirnoff outsells every scotch and gin

Smirnoff is filtered and refined through 7 tons of activated charcoal, literally a "mountain" of charcoal. This "black magic" removes most of the congeners. No wonder Smirnoff is the world's finest liquor. It has no "bite," blends perfectly with fruit juices or soft drinks. Try breathless Smirnoff today, on-the-rocks or in a Martini, and find out why.

It leaves you breathless

Senate Approves Hike In Debt Ceiling

Washington (AP) — The Senate completed congressional action Tuesday on legislation continuing the $309 billion ceiling on the national debt until Nov. 30, when it may be boosted higher.

Senate passage by a 57-31 vote sent the bill to the White House for signature.

The measure drew some caustic criticism of Kennedy administration spending policies from its foes, and a protest by Sen. John J. Williams, R-Del., that such short term ceilings on the national debt were an "irresponsible way" to manage finances.

"Impossible"

Sen. George A. Smathers, D-Fla., the bill's floor manager, replied, that it has been impossible, with Congress moving so slowly on appropriations bills, to appraise at this time what the actual debt limit should be.

The old temporary debt limit of $305 billion was raised to $307 billion last spring and to $309 billion for the period between July 1 and Aug. 31. Without Tuesday's 3-month extension of the $309 billion figure, the limit would have dropped to the permanent ceiling of $285 billion — far below the actual debt.

A higher figure—there has been talk of $320 billion — may be proposed by the administration to take effect Nov. 30, when needs are more clearly known.

2 Bills Enacted

Smathers noted that only two appropriations bills, representing less than one-seventh of the entire budget, have been enacted thus far, although this is the second month of the fiscal year for which the money is being voted.

Chairman Harry F. Byrd, D-Va., of the Senate Finance Committee, announcing he opposed the bill, said the planned expenditures for this year "could and should be reduced by $7 billion"—a cut which he said would not impair any essential function.

Byrd said the bill only "temporizes with a situation which should be met constructively," and added:

"Every business man knows the federal debt of the United States, which is now running far more than $300 billion, cannot be responsibly managed on 60 and 90-day authorizations. Such a procedure would be unnecessary if the administration would get down under the ceiling and stay there."

Problem Gets Bigger

Perigueux, France (AP) — The smudge fire that Henri Delmon lit near a hornet nest in his country home drove out the hornets, all right, but left him with a bigger problem. The fire got away from him and destroyed his roof.

Nebraskans Will Oppose Aid Bill

Washington (AP) — Nebraska's 3 House members said Tuesday they plan to vote against the foreign aid authorization bill.

The measure, on which House debate began Tuesday, would authorize $4.1 billion for the year which began July 1.

Rep. Glenn Cunningham, Ralph F. Beermann and Dave Martin, Nebraska Republicans, said in interviews they expect to cast their votes against the measure.

Parks Will Be Closed In Carolina

Columbia, S. C. (UPI)—South Carolina announced Tuesday it would close all of its state parks Sept. 8 rather than desegregate them.

In a terse statement, Forestry Commissioner Fulton B. Creech said:

"Acting on advice of the attorney general, the State Commission of Forestry has decided to close the state parks at the close of business Sept. 8, 1963, placing them on a caretaker and maintenance basis until such time as the general assembly shall otherwise direct."

In a sweeping decision July 10, U. S. District Judge J. Robert Martin of Greenville gave the state 60 days to desegregate the parks, and at the same time, ordered the University of South Carolina to lower its racial barriers.

The announced closing date of the parks will come only a few days before Martin's order would go into effect.

Creech announced the commission's decision following a meeting here.

Martin's delay postponed the effect of the ruling until after the peak summer season, explaining that he could not "ignore the fact that long-standing customs are not changed without planning, education, leadership and foresight."

The commission's action of dumping the future of the state parks into the general assembly's hands followed a lawmaker's statement last month that a solution to the operation of the parks would be up to state legislators.

Snake Causes Dog To Jump

Baltimore (AP)—Something has to be wrong when your colic dog, shaking with fright, jumps in bed with you in the middle of the night.

There was, as Gilbert Thompson and his wife, Leona, found out Monday night. The dog, who normally sleeps in the kitchen, was chased out by a 5-foot, non-poisonous king snake.

The Thompsons found the reptile scaling the furniture and called police. Patrolman Julius Neveker, after a tiring chase, managed to pick it up and bag it for the zoo.

Soviets: Chinese Linked With U.S. Political Right

Moscow (UPI)—The Soviet Union charged Tuesday that Communist China has "linked arms with wild men" of the political right in the United States by refusing to sign the limited nuclear test-ban treaty.

The accusation was contained in a long dispatch by Tass, the official Soviet news agency, which is described as "an evaluation" of a communist Chinese statement made public last Thursday.

The Peking Statement said the Soviet Union had reneged on a promise to supply Communist China with nuclear weapons.

Tass did not refer specifically to that charge Tuesday. 'Indifferent'

In a dispatch that ran more than 1,500 words, Tass said Peking's refusal to become a party to the treaty showed that Communist China would remain "indifferent to the spread of nuclear weapons until the Chinese leaders get a chance to lay their hands on a nuclear bomb and see what it is like."

The statement also accused the Chinese of "making public classified documents which involve the sphere of defense" in the countries of the Communist Bloc.

"This leaves hardly anyone trusting Peking with information pertaining to defense," Tass said.

In another section of the statement, Tass said the treaty "does not prohibit the Soviet Union, if need be, from holding underground nuclear tests, to increase stockpiles of its nuclear weapons and even to use these arms against the imperialist aggressors if they unleash a war in a fit of insanity."

Not Disarming

It added that the Soviet Union "does not intend by any means to disarm unilaterally in the face of imperialism."

Tass did not name any "wild men" of the American political right. But it said Communist China had assumed the role of "West German revenge seekers and French extremists."
